Thread: How to \(Safely\) network?

Verdun - December 18, 2023, 8:59 pm

Hello all,

I was wondering, how exactly can you network with other people in spaces like this? Or make friends on forums? It seems that places like here or other hacking forums it would not be wise/smart to reach out with others unless you had a program, services, or other news to share. But I personally would like to have more people to discuss/interact with that are knowledgeable about hacking to learn from them or to share ideas.

(Also hope here is a good place to ask, if it is not let me know and I will take the post down/move it to the proper location.)

Thank you for your time and happy holidays!

Hello, welcome to HF man,

That's a good question, first you should read the Help Docs to learn more about rules and features. Some of them can help you remain safe such as :

- contract system
- popularity
- warning level
- number of posts
- trust scan

There are also lot of tips such as not dealing with people outside of HF, do not share personal information, ...

If you want to learn more about hacking you can post in different categories of <https://hackforums.net/index.php>

If you have any question specifically related to cybersecurity I'll be here to help you : White Hat Hacking

I like your name (french fellow?) ! ??

Thank you for the info! I've been browsing through the forums and found your whitehat post and it was really interesting. I've been trying to observe/understand how to conduct myself properly in these sorts of spaces! Also the name is just because I am a history nerd/buff, Verdun has been through a lot historical. Thanks for the kind welcome, I look forward to learning more/meeting you all!

Hey, welcome to HF. I am fairly new also, after taking a break for about 2 years. This is a great place to network with like minded folk. I have encountered many members that have been very helpful. This is an awesome place.
