Thread: Co-Worker lost \$40k+ Due To eWhoring!

Autononymous - December 22, 2023, 8:16 pm

So, out of nowhere my co-worker gets a call in the middle of the evening by a female "Crypto Analyst"

She is apparently looking for someone else but she says "Hey, maybe you might be interested in this investment?"

Him being a sucker for any female anywhere, he says for sure. "You buy when I buy"

Later on down the line, he shows us the stats of his "Pi Network" investment on "Crypto.com" His investment had skyrocketed to close to $200k and was somehow frozen in time.

We shared our suspicions, but all he saw was dollar signs on his phone.

At this point, he is frantically trying to withdraw this massive lump sum he has just acquired.

But there is a catch. For this, he will have to pay his taxes up front.

He wants to withdraw $10k to test the waters, so they ask for $1000

He sends it.

While waiting, he decides "Why don't I withdraw it more"

He sends more.

Until bam!

$40,000.00 USD in the hole

The man put up title loans, borrowed from the bank, and above all he borrowed $20k from a family member.

He admits, he got scammed.

But wait! Just as he is starting to recover from this last scam, he runs into another lady via Telegram.

Boy do they hit it off, the man can't stay off his phone!

He's showing us pictures and videos of her, luxury cars, houses etc.

At this point, he is now talking about moving to Arizona where she is located. He is ready to leave RIGHT then but she is opening another "firm" in Minnesota of all places? what??

The next morning, he comes in and says "Moved my retirement over to her" She invested it and that he would be able to live off of just the interest until he is able to move to Arizona.

She insists that he get off of ALL social media. He obliges.

By now, many of us have raised red flags at every opportunity, but our concerns fell on deaf ears.

The man came into work when I was off, and quit without a notice because "He was retiring"

He is in his mid 50s and just gave up his retirement.

It took him 3 weeks, but he finally retrieved his tool box from work, and the situation was still the same. Come January he is moving to Arizona to live with her, he even sent me a picture of a Rolex she had bought him (that he wasn't in possession of)

So within the course of 3 months, this man lost $40,000.00
His 9 year 401k
Quit his job.
Kicked his wife and two kids to the curb

Is selling all his possessions, for a lie.

Thanks to Cooligan for the title change!

I feel like if I check the ewhore section I'm going to find some cross-dressing skid bragging about how he's now 40k up.

Tetly - December 22, 2023, 8:23 pm

His fault for being stupid/greedy this is a common scam I see it on discord daily.

It's sad, but a big lesson learned.

If he played runescape this would never have happened. Anyways, big face palm for this guy...

Sucks for him, he should've listened to everyone telling him otherwise. You'd think at his age he would've learned by now the good ol'e saying; "if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is".

Who knows though, crazier shits happened. I hope it works out for him and he meets this mysterious dream girl.

Greed consumes the weak.

And this is exactly why I stay ethical..

That's just sad to hear.

A man working his entire life, to have that taken from him..

People may say he got what he deserved or whatever, and that may be the case, but seriously, that's gotta hurt...

Eran - December 24, 2023, 1:42 am

How does he go from sending 1k to 40k without getting a penny in return.

Honestly, I am still surprised that people still get scammed this way. Can't believe why anyone would ever send money to a person they literally never even met and blatantly believe what they are saying over the internet / call.

Big lots of money in his "crypto.com" account

Chatting with who he thinks is some hot woman that is way younger.

eWhoring but on a much larger, more personal level.

e whoring is the stupidest shit ever glad I never read that section of the forum

Syndicate - December 24, 2023, 10:38 am

Sad to say, this shit happens all the time. Poor guy though. He should have waited to receive any modicum of money back.

itskrimzson - December 24, 2023, 11:22 am

I have seen this happen numerous times throughout the years. Really unfortunate but people are prone to this it seems.

alejandro752ska - December 24, 2023, 11:56 am

Highlife - December 24, 2023, 12:09 pm

Jacked - December 24, 2023, 12:14 pm

There is a sucker born everyday. I need to find a few.

Rionxee - December 24, 2023, 10:17 pm

This is a sad story, it happens so much. The thing that gets me is how gullible people can be as if they have zero awareness and exposure to the real world.
