You take your chances on the dark web. I hate to say it that way but don't risk money that you can't afford to lose. As per this thread I'm lost on whether you're warning a forum that has nothing to do with the dw about things that are already known to occur there or whether you are begging for donations in the lounge.. seems more like the last part to me.

Dude what did you think buying redline software from that guy, he is not connected to redline in any way. This was your lesson now and asking donations for your stupidity is not gonna make it any better.
