Do you guys ever feel guilty after killing a bug? I sprayed a centipede with bug spray and i felt terrible afterwards. I dont feel the same for roaches though, f*ck em

I usually try to make an attempt to transport it outside. If it is something that I kill, I try to do it very quick. I don't know if they feel pain or not.

Jamika - December 29, 2023, 12:23 am

I dont feel guilty as long as i dont burn it down, a rapid kill will not be painful

Artisan - December 29, 2023, 12:42 am

Its okay to feel that way. Taking a life should make any one feel guilt.

If its something that I can expect to stumble in my room (like a Ladybug) I pick it up and throw it outside my window.

But if I would see a centipede in my room, I would burn that mf alive.

I'd kill an insect only if I got paid in bytes

James Burnham - December 29, 2023, 2:22 am

The insect would kill you with no remorse if it could

Amnesiac - December 29, 2023, 4:00 am

Depends on the situation but yes generally

Papok - December 29, 2023, 4:53 am

I ain't Buddhist but my religion ask me to don't kill insects without any very good reason.. We should not cut off any trees also! I feel pretty Bad when i need to kill one of 'em to be honest because every life should be respected on our earth imho....

I hope people's are going to woke up and stop wasting our beloved world! :-/

I usually kill them then make it rain over them. Usually with any pennies I have laying around.

Don't worry, you're not alone in thinking about their little insect families :'). We all have a good heart when it comes to these things!

DashPHP - December 30, 2023, 2:26 pm

Yeah, we tend to just let them out. Very rare we kill.

Azythum - December 30, 2023, 3:04 pm

Every life you take should be for eating. Some insects could be eaten though.

Syndicate - December 30, 2023, 3:07 pm

If it's non-invasive bug, then I'll pick it up with a cup or something and put it outside. If it's like a roach or something then that mfker is dead as fuck. Spiders are mostly cool, unless they come near me. Then they're going outside immediately ?

Autonomous - December 30, 2023, 3:35 pm

I try to get them outside if at all possible

Aside from roaches, and venomous spiders... they are KOS

BlackMale - December 30, 2023, 4:49 pm

If it's something I'd get rid of then I would use bug spray as I don't know if they feel pain.

Scrubspoo - December 30, 2023, 6:56 pm

You need to love and respect all of gods creatures

Kidding. Bugs are important to the balance of nature but I don't believe they have any real conscious, so fuck em.
