The algorithm is the good part.

whits - January 2, 2024, 12:26 pm

The algorithm is the amazing

Have more mentally retarded people lol

I refuse to use Tiktok. I watch YouTube Shorts sometimes. I'm surprised Tiktok has been able to maintain it's popularity for so long.

DashPHP - January 2, 2024, 2:16 pm

I don't use tiktok much but it is a great spot to learn new things quick.

Monero-chan - January 2, 2024, 2:42 pm

Trying to get myself away from any short-form content, and trying to get myself to watch longer content.

M1L3NK0 - January 2, 2024, 4:30 pm

As everyone else is saying, TikTok's algorithm is just better. What they show me is more often entertaining to me than whats shown to me on YouTube shorts. That being said I do prefer full-form YouTube videos when I have more time i.e downtime at work or being at home other than always watching TikToks, it's entertainment but not the best stuff I've ever seen lol

Syndicate - January 2, 2024, 4:43 pm

Literally everyone else has already said. The algorithm is the best and knows what kind of videos that I enjoy watching. My Instagram reels are just completely unhinged and I love watching those too. Other than that, I don't have an exact answer for you

The videos are entertaining and directed at my interests. I like YouTube but I can't stand shorts. I spent too much time on tik tok and deleted it this past week.

it's just like the argument of iphone is better than samsung.people get attached to the "nEW" fashion even if it's not the best.

Endless dopamine available at the tip of your fingers

Healthy algorithms as others say that genuinely direct your interests towards you. Which can also be negative if you're a type to try and hide what your interests are.

However it's rigged just like every other social site, if you really ask about the benefit though, it would simply be put as exposure.

Unlikely you'll surpass 1-2k views if new or your content just isn't good until you do. Takes time like any other site. But you can grow quick.

(Jan 3, 2024 03:33 AM)Eran Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Endless dopamine available at the tip of your fingers. That. Because TikTok is a phone app and people generally have their phones on them at all times, if you have 30 seconds, you can watch TT clips. If you have an hour, you can also waste that time too. Eventually you just get used to getting a quick-fix to remove your boredom until everything except TT is boring to you.

It's not different than the people who get high on Heroin. At first it's to feel a high. Then after some regular usage if you're not using Heroin life is unbearable. Heroin of course is very physically addicting but I'd argue that the release of dopamine is also a physical addiction.

People are rewiring themselves by the millions and it's not going to end well.

The algorithm is pretty good, after awhile of searching, watching, disliking. It will slowly tailor the vids towards your interests

DemonAsylum - January 3, 2024, 9:58 pm

To this day I've still never used TikTok. I do get why it blew up and so many people love it, but I just couldn't care less for it honestly. Funny enough though I wouldn't be surprised if I did install it that I'd get sucked into video after video just like the millions of others have.

Rahul007rhp - January 3, 2024, 10:28 pm

I can talk about the bad one, the app is made by the Chinese hit - January 3, 2024, 10:35 pm

I think it's just the push it has right now. The ad space is really where it's at. Nothing great along the lines of TikTok outside of its hip for the young generation right now.

Online Sir - January 4, 2024, 12:07 am

For me, TikTok kills time. Like at the airport, waiting for something etc.

Renowned - January 4, 2024, 10:14 am

Every so often I stumble upon something that tickles me. That's good enough for me.

never2much - January 5, 2024, 12:20 pm

Brainrot. nobody should use any of that crap its a trap
