True, it is a shame that innocent people are harmed in wars. Unfortunately it seems that the one side that started it is disinterested in stopping and in my opinion, hasn't given Ukraine a choice in the matter.

I very like that tactical move to cutting connection between people. I think they did that to not make the russian people know what is happening in the outside world and steal some government info maybe. I am eager to know what will be the russian move to answer.

what does it mean in practice

Monero-chan - January 12, 2024, 10:03 am

They've been at it since the conflict started

There's propaganda on both sides, but I'll continue to believe Ukraine > Russia any day of the week, any time.
