Heroic Iowa School Principal Who Protected Students During Shooting Dies

Marburger was shot and wounded on Jan. 4 when a 17-year-old entered Perry High School before school hours with a shotgun and a handgun and killed a sixth-grade student later identified as 11-year-old Ahmir Jolliff. Marburger and four additional students were wounded at the time.

The suspected assailant was discovered dead from a self-inflicted gunshot when authorities arrived on the scene, according to Iowa police. Dan Marburger, the principal who was shot while protecting students during the Jan. 4 shooting at Perry High School in Iowa, has died.
