if I only had 102 btc I'd keep 100 in cold storage and use the last 2 to yolo to try to get to 100 BTC more until I got at least 1k then diversify but always have at least 100 btc in cold, more preferably

£3.5M is skid money lel XD

V?rt - January 30, 2024, 3:24 pm

I would 100% invest like half of it into real estate. Then I would take 1/4 of it. Put it into a fund, then take the other 1/4 and just spend it on random things, new car, house, and probably leave the rest in the bank accounts.

Mac Miller - January 30, 2024, 4:29 pm

102 BTC is way too specific. OP, give me one of your bitcoin

M?tt - January 30, 2024, 4:39 pm

Absolutely nothing. I love what I do and where I am at. I'd definitely buy a house or something, but that's it.

Pay off my debts and retire early. Never have to work a day in my life again. I'm content with the small things in life. I'm not one of those folk that's needs $100k+/year.

Are you looking for someone to share bitcoin with?

Blora - February 6, 2024, 10:24 am

I would most likely consider investing into things that generate me more money than I'm making right now.

danielbeyzym10 - February 6, 2024, 5:27 pm

invest a part in real estate. and chill!

anoncrab - February 6, 2024, 9:54 pm

Only use 10BTC for spending, and save the rest. Since I predict bitcoin going up to 100k eventually, I would make like 2x however much 102btc is right now. So if I spent 10 of the 102, I would have 92BTC = $42,985.40 as of posting. So I would have $3,954,656.80. When it hits 100k, I would have roughly $6.78M when it reaches 100k.

I like the idea of being stress free and using it to afford a really expensive education in computers. I would love to get to go to Harvard/MIT/Oxford/ETH Zurich.
