Not gonna lie, your marketing strategy - creating multiple threads(i have counted 11 threads, if not mistaken) showcasing every single little detail of your malware - is indeed kind of silly.

You could have easily put many of these in one thread or organize them and split into subject threads.

PS. Please do not take this post personally or as offense. This post is just my opinion, nothing else. No backstory.

Thats my pleasure. You have reported my post but i think it doesn't violate any policy. Ouch.

Is this how you add things to your "special advice folder"?

Take some suggestions for future threads:

AKIRA v2.1 [Showcase Windows 2000]

AKIRA v2.1 [Showcase Windows XP]

AKIRA v2.1 [Showcase Windows 7]

AKIRA v2.1 [Showcase Windows 8]

AKIRA v2.1 [Showcase Windows 10]
AKIRA v2.1 [Showcase Windows 11]

There is also good opportunity to split each of those to separate windows editions(Home, Pro, Education, Enterprise etc) and versions(22H2, 21H2 etc).

AKIRA v2.1 [GRABBING FIREFOX]
AKIRA v2.1 [GRABBING CHROME]
AKIRA v2.1 [GRABBING IE]
AKIRA v2.1 [GRABBING EDGE]
...

Each should be combined with the smartest term ever created - "FUD-NESS".
Literally endless possibilities for more threads.

Speaking of which, I'm channeling mine into constructive discussions and projects. Looking forward to more of your jokes as we keep the conversation going.

Your words speaks itself, no need to add more than that:

"FUD-ness"

"AKIRA is masterpiece of Python programming blended with JavaScript encryption" - personally my favorite, python malware XD

"Most advanced stealer" - cant stop laughing XD

Another report XD Whats the policy that i violated?
