HelloFresh USA Voucher Codes - Save $100-120

HelloFresh is amazing because it's easy, cheap, delicious, and doesn't consume too much time.

A single McChicken is $1.74 on average in the US. So, would you rather eat less than 10 McChickens, or would you rather eat 12 Meals? You're not stupid, right?

My Price: $10

Each promo allows you to receive 10-12 meals for just $5-8, which is $100-$120 off regular prices.

Discover Your Perfect Option: 2 Servings, 5 Meals: Only $4.99 (10 Meals Total)

2 Servings, 6 Meals: Only $8.47 (12 Meals Total)

4 Servings, 3 Meals: Only $4.99 (12 Meals Total)

My Promo:

Including my $10 price, your total cost for 10-12 meals is only $14.99 or $18.47 depending on which plan you buy. With my promo, you can just cancel your plan and restart every time.

Their Promo:

If you use the regular Hello Fresh promo, you have to pay at least $55 to receive 10-12 meals. Then you're tied to a plan and will pay much more over time.

My Top 6 Recommended Meals for Feb 10-16:

I like to make a Creamy Chipotle/Sriracha Aioli/Sauce to use for Sandwiches & Bowls. I'll include the recipe for that and the meals I would use it with.

Spoiler (Click to View)

These are not in any specified order. If there's multiple meat options for a dish, I will put a * next to my preference

[Chicken, Turkey, or Pork*] Sausage Rigatoni Rosa
with Cream Cheese, Zucchini, & Parmesan Cheese
- Cook Time: 20 Minutes

Sweet Chili Beef & Green Bowls
with Jasmine Rice, Crispy Onions & Cilantro
- Cook Time: 20 Minutes

- I like to add the sauce I mentioned (using the Sour Cream version)

One-Pan Santa Fe [Chicken*, Beef, or Pork] Tacos
with Monterey Jack & Cilantro Citrus Slaw

- Cook Time: 20 Minutes

- Haven't tried it, but it would be good with the sauce I mentioned (using Sour Cream version)

Melty Monterey Jack Burgers
with Onion Jam, Garlic Mayo & Crispy Potato Wedges

- Cook Time: 35 Minutes

- Could just add Sriracha/Chipotle Adobo to the Mayo if you want to spice it up

Arthur Ave [Chicken or Pork*] Sausage & Pepper Heroes
with Melty Mozzarella & Garlic Potato Wedges

- Cook Time: 35 Minutes

Crispy Buffalo-Spiced Chicken
with Blue Cheese Sauce, Scallion Mashed Potatoes & Carrots

- Cook Time: 35 Minutes

How to make the Creamy Chipotle/Sriracha Sauce (Perfect for Bowls & Sandwiches)

1. Add 1 Cup of Sour Cream or Mayo into a bowl

2. Add 1-2+ Tablespoons of Chipotle Adobo/Sriracha Sauce to the bowl

- Start with 1 depending on your spice tolerance

3. Mix it up

Tips:

- When using mayo or sour cream, if the sauce is too thick, add a tiny bit of water and mix it up to your desired consistency.

- Remember that in cooking, you can never really remove an ingredient, but you can always add more of something else to balance it out

- Depending on the use case, you can also use Blue Cheese or Ranch Dressing instead of Mayo/Sour Cream. One use case for this would be a dipping sauce for fries or vegetables. But for more general use, I'd go with Sour Cream/Mayo.

Any idea if these will work in AUS? Interested if so :)

I just clicked the link from an Australian IP and you would receive 40% off.

So, 10 Meals would be $63, 20 would be $99, 30 for $132.

I guess it's not too bad, but it's definitely not as good as the US Promo.

Just a heads up to anyone who considers using Exchange's Hellofresh service.

I purchased his hellofresh service last week for the first time. It worked perfectly for the first order.

However, this week I wanted to order again, I paid Exchanges and he sent me a new referral code. Despite following Exchange's instructions (used a brand new email that was not signed up with hellofresh, new browser/computer, modified name and address, used different payment method and a different ip address), Hellofresh did not let me apply his promotion code.

I contacted Exchanges yesterday, explaining to him that I was unable to use the promotion code. He asked me to try it multiple times, which I did. I followed his instructions correctly. The promotion never did work the second time and I was unable to successfully place an order.

I asked Exchanges for a refund and he refused. I have been trying to contact him today and I have even offered to provide him with my address/details so he could try to place the order through his end. However, he appears to be ignoring my HF pms.

Proceed with caution.

Proceed with caution.I'm not going to place an order for you using your card. That's literally fraud. You messaged me 6 hours ago, how have I been ignoring you all day? I've had multiple users successfully order multiple times with 0 problems. I am trying to find a solution to this problem by contacting the one other individual who experienced the same problem and look for similarities to what may have caused this. Sorry you feel this way

Please don't lie.

I never asked you to place an order using my credit card.

Now you're trying to find a solution to this problem? Half an hour ago you told me this.

Sorry for your loss. It's a shame that users on here can't advertise their service truthfully.

I'd recommend opening up a dispute against @Exchanges

It works fine, they just did something wrong along the way. Both of them bitched about troubleshooting, one of them even said that it was too much work to make a new email address for $120+ worth of food for $15... The other one wanted me to commit fraud by using his card and place the order for him, which would require me to create them new accounts, get a VCC, get a phone number, etc etc. I'm not doing that for $10. I offered to send them codes, but I'm refusing to refund them.

The first guy claimed I was ignoring him all day because I didn't message him for 6 hours as I was busy doing something else, so then he tries to ruin my business. I'm not gonna deal with bullshit from greedy, lazy, and impatient people.

They act like you can just keep ordering over and over again or order using the same information without getting flagged. HelloFresh would be out of business lmao.

You're such a terrible liar, it's actually funny.

Where did I ask you to use my credit card for me?

If I had asked you to use my credit card for me, why would that involve getting a VCC? You make 0 sense and nothing you say even adds up. The fact that you cannot refund $10 for selling a service that does not work, just shows how greedy you are. You're literally making $35 through Hellofresh for every referral promo you send out.

jcole - February 10, 2024, 7:11 am

I don't understand how the people who purchased can't get a second order to go through, do you not know how to use a VPN and clear your cookies?

"Any chance you could try and place the order for me?"

- I took this as in you wanted me to use your card to order it, my bad. I wouldn't have used your card, so I would have had to get a VCC. Now does that make sense? You wanted me to order using my payment information and then send me an extra $0.03 to make up for it? Yeah, I'm not gonna spoon-feed a baby who is impatient and whines, feed yourself.

2. & 5."You've been ignoring me all day (6 hours, 11 minutes btw) and as soon as I make the post on your thread, it has seemed to have gotten your attention."

- Yeah, no shit, Sherlock. Have you ever heard of notifications? Of course, a notification gets my attention. A notification that leads to you ruining my business... of course that gets my attention?

3. "how have you been helping me? You gave me instructions, I followed them correctly and it is still not working"

- Exactly, I gave you instructions and tips on what to do. You must not have followed the steps correctly. I was trying to help you troubleshoot, then you go make your stupid little post that has cost me sales. You said you had a perfect first time, why couldn't you just be patient and allow me a chance to fix your problem? When it comes to shit like this, it's not always perfect. Methods like this take some trial and error sometimes. I had just started selling this, I had multiple buyers who made multiple orders with no issues. It's going to take time for me to find an answer for your problem.

4. "There's nothing inaccurate about the post I made on your thread"

- The promotion did work, you just fucked something up. You even said it worked at first but then when you checked out, the promo code switched up. Like I said, it's a skill issue on your end. Since you want to be the way you are and cause me to lose sales, I am no longer going to help you. You should have received some codes in your box. How about you troubleshoot it yourself?

We're on Hackforums, people here are supposed to be computer-literate at the least. It's common knowledge that big corporations who give out promos such as this aren't going to let every Tom, Dick, and Harry to keep hitting it over and over again. The shittiest part is that I was actively helping these people to make sure they get their order. One of them was too lazy to make a new email lmao. I can tell by how impatient these guys are that they didn't follow the steps correctly and they fucked up somewhere.

The one dude even proved to me that the promo worked, but then it switched up on him because his poor OPSEC. I offered them both new codes and offered my support. But, I can't help someone who doesn't want to be helped.

I genuinely feel like it's user error on the people claiming this guy is scamming.

I've bought 2 boxes with no issues. I hate to see someone's business being turmoiled over some unwilling customers. Thank you for the vouch man, it means a lot. I'm glad you were able to get your boxes with no problem. Hope you guys enjoy the food and have a fun time cooking the food. Hello Fresh is fun for date night tbh. Let me know if you like the food.

My service does work buddy, you're just not technically inclined. Nothing wrong with that btw, I wouldn't have minded helping you until you started calling me a scammer because of your own fault. Dude, your first order worked fine, but just because YOU can't get the 2nd one to work you look for somebody to blame. The code worked, but it switched up on you because YOU fucked something up. How would it be my fault?

Also, how am I getting paid $35 from Hello Fresh? I've never seen anything where they pay people $35 for abusing a method?

Well, what we can learn from this is to always give refunds, and provide top-notch customer service. It might have bothered you to provide them refunds, but then you wouldn't have lost so many new potential customers.
