Sure night, so i can rest in bed and have some snacks and drinks while surfing the net

Ultras - February 8, 2024, 9:32 pm

Definitely late evening and night most of the time. If I'm in a coastal city I also love late morning to early afternoon when other people are stuck in an office and the coast is clear

I love night, for the main reason being that's when I'm most productive.

I'm a night owl. I like being the only one awake and having some peace and quiet. I know nobody's going to call me about work or needing anything. It gives me a chance to just unwind and reflect. I am absolutely not a morning person at all. I can't stand being up early, I don't have energy at all in the morning I despise morning people.

Night time for me as I can barely sleep so most of the time just stay up.

Regulus - February 8, 2024, 11:50 pm

Night all the way.

Especially 2-6 AM, so quiet and peaceful.

Morning when I wake up early, I like the feeling of being productive for the whole day and don't waste my time

Eran - February 9, 2024, 12:45 am

Nowadays it's nighttime - I know the day is over and rest is finally coming - and an opportunity to do better tomorrow.

oh man I just love the morning. The cold weather, dew, enjoying some coffee and breakfast. And just getting that slow start to the day. For me, the morning dictates how the rest of my day goes so I always treasure the morning.

Nighttime has to be the best

Every day is different. Nighttime seems to be the majority of good times. The best when getting some sleep then getting up in the later hours. Different parts of the day seem better for different activities. Then you have to throw in the factors of seasons and weather. Is this your home or traveling?

MarkGold - February 10, 2024, 3:41 am the night is more special for me but indeed every day is different

Night. As it's the perfect time to get shit done in absolute peace/silence. No distractions.

I've always been a night owl myself. Everything is much calmer and more peaceful at night.

The night.

plops - October 3, 2025, 9:34 am

Mornings are the best time of day. Specifically 4-5am. The outdoors have morning smell. Its still quiet but the day is about to start.

The Joker - October 3, 2025, 9:53 am

I'm a night person.

Evening when I'm most active.

Night when I need to chill and sleep.

Evening is my favorite because the day finally slows down.

I can breathe without rushing.
