Never heard of BLTools, but if you don't know how to use logins, I don't know how to help you.

Sorry for my lack of words, Let me try and explain. Have a lot of Email and password like 200k right so my question is can i use these basic information to get like BTC wallets, Bank Info, Paypal Logs? I was introduce to a tool that they say basically can sort this basic info to find wallets etc... Its the first time i am seeing this tool or heard of it. Thats why i am asking here to get info on the possibility of extracting such info from basic EMail;Passwaor?

So these logs do not include what services the logins belong to? In that case you're limited to credential stuffing or spraying credentials across the web and seeing what sticks.

You're really confusing me as to what the problem is. You have merely to test them to see if they still work and don't have additional protections.
