Have a few loans, would pay most off. Spend a little, live a little. Put some into the rainy day fund. and invest the rest. 800k would be invested, not sure exactly how as I know shit about investing.

I'd probably put it into Bitcoin while I waited for the housing market to settle and the interest rates to go back down. Possibility if I found the right house I would buy it out right and make sure it was 100% paid off. But most likely I'd put it into Bitcoin.

ColdRevenge - February 17, 2024, 2:04 am

I would ensure that any debts my family have are paid of in full. I'd also then make sure they never needed to worry about bills again.

Anything left over, I'd go 50/50 on investing it into my future, and enjoying the present.

Domestos - February 23, 2024, 10:17 pm

100k into an apartment, 50k for spendings and paying off debt, buy a few bitcoins for a cold storage wallet and let them age (Buy at bottom, not rn), rest into index funds.

Live off the yields and let that money sit and make even more money, should have more than enough to live very comfortably for the rest of my life, kids should have a good life too if they play their cards right and invest it as well and not blow it on coke and hookers.

HALx86 - February 23, 2024, 10:39 pm

I think I'd go back to school. Afford to go to my dream school and study computers. If it doesn't work out hopefully I'll still have enough to live a quiet life.

Kalvaxas - February 25, 2024, 10:48 am

Buy 500,000 lottery tickets. If I didn't earn the money and just stumbled upon it, then why not try to get more. It's not like I'd be losing hard earned money.
