blink 182 is the best

LOL, that's actually a pretty good question that I've never thought about.

In my eyes, pretty much all companies are shady, you can find something unethical about almost every brand we use today.

Your question actually makes me think pretty deep, we are in a world where the rich suppliers are being crooked, yet we still give them our money without thinking twice. Laaame.

I don't have one favorite either, I rely on the quality of the product rather than the logo.

I would have said, about 10 years ago Porcupine Tree with Dream Theater or Shadow Gallery in a close second.

These days...not so much a favorite band.

I know I'll sound like a complete nutcase, but I don't enjoy music anymore. I found out, after not listening to music for a few weeks, that my mind is much clearer and focused. Maybe the problem is that I listened to rather aggressive genres like metal, hard techno etc, but I just dropped music completely and I'm fine with that.

So no, no such thing as favorite band for me. In my listening days though, it would be Meshuggah.

EDIT. Oh shit I read band, scratch my entire post L. O. L.

Hackforums.net is a pretty rad brand if you think about it.
