Thread: 500th Post. My feelings.

Mooooookie - April 1, 2024, 1:39 pm

As the title says, this is my 500th post on the forum, and man I must say, it's a nice feeling. It's not an award but a good feeling nonetheless. Tbh, I haven't really been focused on my post count, and more focused on attempting to make my posts quality. I tend type alot when I have something to say, which also leads to long ass paragraphs, that sometimes I may go back and break down into separate paragraphs.

Anyway, goal of this post wasn't to talk about my run on sentences, it was to highlight my 500th post and my feeling like I'm finally starting to break ground. Have met some pretty cool people on here, some more talkative then others.. but for the most part, all good interactions. I'm glad that I decided to actually take this forum serious and not as just another forum on the net.

Thanks for all that have given a warm welcome or courteous in one way or another. You're the ones that make this forum what it is today. When you first get on a forum, your first interactions can make a big difference on whether you choose to stay, or head on back to the next search result!

So thanks to all you guys.

Nice milestone, keep going! Soon I'll reach my 10k posts :D

Congratulations brother , Keep posting . I also want that count .

Congrats on the milestone and it's always great to see more members being active the way you have. Even better if they're more on the newer side as I'd say you fall into the category of. I'm glad to hear you've had a positive experience on here so far too and hope that only continues ?

Undead - April 1, 2024, 2:00 pm

Congrats man, I'm approaching my 1000th post. Never thought I'd make that many posts when I first joined this forum. But yeah its a great place and not many of them left on the internet.

Oh shit, only 2 posts from that big 1k milestone. Congrats in advance and I feel the same way. I know my 6k isn't even that much honestly, but I definitely wouldn't have expected to post ANYWHERE near that much on here or any forum for that matter. The number is pretty weak for how long I've been on here honestly, but I guess I've never been a big/active/consistent poster either. Shoutout to someone like Yanix for being exactly like that kind of member. Posts for days and I gotta tip it.

Thanks, man. Congrats to you as well for reaching 6k. I can see that you keep your posts high quality rather than posting just for the sake of it.

No problem and at all thank you as well! I do my best not to have my posts come across as LQ or seeming as though they're just for the fuck of it basically. Doesn't do me, anyone else, or the forum any good if it's spam, LQ, etc of course.

The fact that they're more of a newer member is the best part imo, 100%. An influx of newer members that are actually of decent quality and provide some solid activity is what HF needs a lot more of.

500 is a pretty good accomplishment. Congrats on that. I'm trying to be a bit more active so I can get a bit closer to that 24k post award. I know I'm only like 1/3 of the way there though. Gonna be a while.

Same on my end. It's a huge way out for me as well, but it would be cool to get to like 10k posts at least by the end of the year. I know that's still a long way from 24k, but 10k is a great milestone in itself honestly.

As I was saying on another thread, I've joined many forums over the years, but majority of them i never remained active on. Usually go there to get what I'm getting, and typically don't return. I like the community here, and actually a bit sad to see that it's not as active as it could be. This place feels like it has so much potential, and yeah while I might of missed the golden years, that's not to say things can't be turned back around. I would love to see what this place has in store in the future, and hope some good ideas are being stirred up on how to get it back to it's old glory!

Well we all certainly appreciate your time and efforts towards being active on here and generally just a part of the community. I can also appreciate the outlook you have on the forum in terms of being able to bounce back more and what it may have in store. Positivity is always tippable ?

They say you gotta look for the positive in every situation, despite how negative it may be. So rather then pay attention to the lack of activity, I think I'm more intrigued by the fact I'm finding something new everyday since I've been here. There was a whole section of menus I never knew existed, with a whole subsection to that section. Lol. Can you imagine how stoked I was to find that? This place is a gem, just needs a little reviving.

Well I can only hope there are more people than not sharing in how you look at things around here. I give props to anyone who does and them doing so likely only motivates them to contribute more so that others feel the same. Much appreciated.

Yeah, I agree with that one. I feel like it's 100% do-able. My 7k+ posts were completed over a span of 10 years, but I've probably taken 3 ish years of breaks and it's not every day that I make a post.

I'm trying right now to do at least a few post each day.

Yeah for many years I didn't post for shit either ?

I'd say at least half of my posts are from just the past couple of years and even throughout those I never consistently went out of my way to be active. It's mainly been a chunk of posts during X amount of time like Oktoberfest for instance. I'm hoping to knock out a good amount of posts throughout this month.

Yeah same as well. I still have 950 posts that I made in a group YEARS ago (Brotherhood) and it makes up a large chunk of my post count lol. Things like the October fest also contributed a good bit of posts to it as well.

Are there any other groups you were a part of and posted in the SFs a good amount for that then got purged such as due to being sold or something? I know Omni has done some post purges as well. Makes me wonder what amount of posts we'd be otherwise sitting at ?
