Thread: BTC transaction stuck

Juba - April 12, 2024, 4:45 am

My BTC transaction is still unconfirmed after roughly 5 days from being sent, so will it be confirmed at some point even it will take so much time, is there any risk that i will never get it? And is there a way to speed it up without paying too much?

Thanks in advance.

I was like "oh just give it some time" then saw 5 days... It will either go through or get cancelled eventually. Try loading your seed phrase into a different wallet and see if its back to being sendable...

What fee did you pay on the transaction?

BTC Fee went up ALOT this week so that might explain why.
U have to accelerate the transaction

Yep this is important. Fees have gotten outrageous again (currently 105 sat, $10.31) so if sent with low fees will take a very long time to confirm. I sent a 15 Sat transaction yesterday and still not confirmed. Was going to bump it till I saw how high fees gotten. I'm sick of this same old shit over and over with btc you send with the appropriate fees then they jump way higher and your transaction gets stuck lmao.

OP you can try RBF if your wallet supports it and even try a btc accelerator. I used to think btc accelerator's were all shit. Until I used one last time my transaction got stuck and it went for confirmation ETA of 23 hours to confirmed in 2 minutes lol

EDIT: medium priority fees went up to $15 in the time it took me to write this post lmao.

I think i'm gonna use it rn thanks bro

I'm just curious what would happen if i let it and don't use an accelerator? Will it get cancelled?
