I am currently playing on xbox. Is it worth switching to anything else?

It's just personal preference. There are of course people that will die on the hill of X platform being the "best", but ultimately it comes down to you. Do you have a decent PC or can you afford one? Do you have interest in being able to utilize mods or way more on games? Do you even play games that such a thing would come into play for? Do you have more friends that play on PS or PC that if you swapped to you could enjoy gaming with more than on Xbox? Does PS have multiple exclusives you want to play? Etc, etc. If you enjoy your time on Xbox, are happy with the games you already have access to on there as well as how they play (performance and graphics wise), and you don't have a big difference in who you could play games with on a different platform, than I see no glaring reasons as to why you should make the swap. If you want to provide more details though than we could no doubt chime in a bit more and maybe better.
