Gambling is worse than the drugs I'm using (help I also struggle with flipping)

Man I haven't gone to restaurants in a good minute, inflation and renting prices be killing me

I try new things at least once a week. From foods, to getting out of my comfort zone.

In sobriety I realized I lived my entire life in fear, never getting uncomfortable. Getting sober I had to get uncomfortable by going into sober living, going to AA meetings, asking for help, etc.

So now my life is a constant movement of new and uncomfortable things like going to court ON BEHALF of residents of the sober houses I oversee, or helping guys start businesses now, tonight I am going to an out of town meeting about an hour and a half away that's a huge mens AA meeting and I'm excited honestly.
