I didn't even think about that. I was on wireless too.

I envision you with a skyrise server that sticks a mile in the sky from your house , of course protected by the federal aviation too.

Hahaha some of you have some funny thoughts about me. I'm a fairly normal, humble dude, with a nice apartment but by no means a skyrise! It's time for a new car w/ my current 4door sedan from 2016 not doing too hot right now!

I grew up wealthy ngl, but I know realistically I'll end up being more like a warren buffet where no matter how much money I have, I'll probably look like I don't have it. I rock jeans & a tee most of the time lol & in summer catch me in shorts, tee, and sneakers or sometimes I'll rock the khaki shorts with a polo or short sleeve dress shirt if I want to look nicer.

I got a 2014 Kia dad mobile brotha!

3 years ago I had a badass RX8 that was built out, then I got sober and had a kid and now it's an AWD Kia. I love it if i remember ill jump onto ethernet but this laptop I'm on (with a meh wireless card too tbh) doesn't have one, so it'd be an adapter which is also meh lol.

I think I could probably get to 250 on just straight up ethernet on my other, but we'll see.

your #s are insane haha

I've thought about upgrading to 1 gig but I really haven't ever had any issues with my speeds so I'm good with this.

I won't share my exact results, but I can assure you they're no where close to yours.. Lol. You must have an office in the basement of the ISP!

I'm getting approx 180mpbs down, 90mbps up. And thats with the best plan that my ISP offers. :)

On wireless I'm getting 150-250 downloads and 50 up.

More than enough for me!

Honestly that's not even that bad. Like yeah it could be a lot better obviously, but it could also be a LOT worse haha. To be fair though, just how much it may not be "that" good or good "enough" depends on what all you use the internet for, how many people are actively using it, if you're technically running off of a shared line on your street or whatever, etc.
