Thread: Website Directory Enumeration

TheGreatArcher - April 28, 2024, 5:04 am

I wanted to that is there any way to enumerate directories of a website rather than using gobuster....

I have tried go buster but generally wordlists are the key for it to work and sometimes those wordlists are too much to make the use of all for enumeration and takes a lot amount of time..

Use dirsearch : <https://github.com/maurosoria/dirsearch>
10k wordlist (super decent).

You can also try to spyder the website using a tools like OwaspZAP or Burp

If you have a decent enough PC or Linux machine (VM), doing a dir search with gobuster or dirb - what i use, should take very little time. If you dont have a fast PC or linux machine, then i would recommend purchasing a good VPS running kali, or ask/hire someone to do what you are asking.

Ill be happy to help you.

Please make sure if you conduct any transaction of value to use a middleman/escrow service and an onsite contract!

Hope you find what you need though.

Its ok, im not going to charge. I get more satisfaction and value out of helping and teaching people than any amount of money can provide.
