Thread: how do yall be finding data breaches nd leaks

sinos - April 30, 2024, 6:15 pm

i been trying to know this for the longest idk how yall be doing it but i been trying to learn how to do this for a good minute

You might have more luck getting insight and info regarding something like this by posting in one of the sections here - Hacks, Exploits, and Various Discussions

One way you can learn if you are about a data breach, and probably find more resources you are looking for is:

Unfortunately I cannot. The HF Mods deleted it and hit me with a warning for posting it on a thread. And I don't have enough posts to pm anybody yet.

It's too bad because it's fucking solid. It's a bot that returns data from whatever string you query. Names, emails, passwords, housing details, geo coordinates, ip's, payment details, vin numbers, and more.

I've wondered this myself for many years. It's not a 100% solid method, but when you go to HIBP, it gives you the name of the databreach, you can look this up on google and see if you can find that specific breach - github is usually my go-to.

It's not instant, easy, nor complete like the bot

(which I'm not allowed to post for some reason even though it's a resource and doesn't have communication capabilities)

But here's some Raw dumps. I also made a python program that automates searches but it only checks against 5.4 Million leaked credentials.

pretty sure you're allowed to talk about crawlers, bots, and private investigation methods. You just can't support, share, or sell methods that break site tos, like payment info.

Thanks for the link.

I've had a quick look at a few random files, and they all lead to an adfly page which then leads to an empty pastebin with just the news article about the breach..

Im going to have a better look and some of the files, and ill give my feedback.

EDIT: If you got rid of all the 100s of duplicate spam links, the 500 files that have been omitted will be visible and the list may actually be somewhat readable and bearable lol.

Ive downloaded a few files, some do contain email:pass, but am unable to verify at the moment. Will update.

Not every link is going to work, there's a ton of them there. That's just where I downloaded mine from for the python program I mentioned. Use your own judgement when downloading files and do so at your own discretion.

Open Web Vulnerability Project:

<https://owasp.org/>

MITRE:

<https://attack.mitre.org/resources/>

Use this information to perform OSINT online to find exploits. There's many exploit databases furthermore if you use Kali Linux, there is a tool you can use called exploitDB.

<https://www.kali.org>

Also a lot of dumps on the deep web as well that you use web crawlers to search for known vulnerabilities if you know how to create a rainbow table this also helps a lot.

This is fantastic
I really appreciate it, thank you so much!

You can freely search leaked databases with a lot of parameters and even auto crack password hashes.

It is not free though. I think I paid $400 for lifetime.

I assume you mean the Bot. Or do you mean the link above. Either way you're welcome my man!

Bro can you pm me that telegram group for the db leaks? appreciated in advance!

DKxSPAWN - June 12, 2025, 4:24 pm

This is a very informative thread ! I've learned a lot, thanks for it jumbomumbo2 - June 13, 2025, 8:13 am

Does anyone have any links to db leaks? why is it so hard to find.
