EDIT: Account now has membership

EDIT 2: Account banned after 3 days

That's right! I brought back Twitch Plays OSRS and fixed a ton of bugs and updated the code to hopefully be a bit more anti-ban. Though it's going to get banned at some point. Our old account was actually featured on a Behemeth video awhile back.

Come check out the stream and try doing some commands, it's OSRS but even more tedious and painful.

I'm really glad you brought it back. I'll have to check my list of codes, I did have a bunch of 14 day codes, I'll send you some to make it a member. I'm looking forward to following the progress of this new guy.

eyy if you gottem I'll take em. Would be nice to add members since it's basically a seasonal thing. Get the highest total level before the account is banned xD iirc I added members to the first account after like a month or so.

yeah it was too be expected. Though after like 4 months of no ban I thought it was a sure thing and paid for membership for a year and it got banned 1 month after I spent the $100 [>>]

Never doing that again, month by month is de way.

I wondered what happened to this project, and didn't realize the account was banned. I plan to tune in sometime this week.

Well shit, that didn't last long. I went to the stream and the account is banned. Sad fucking day, again.

Yep Jagex hates us. I could try doing it with a mobile emulator? Idk, might just do Twitch Plays WoW since Blizzard seems to not care as much.

Shit is so lame bro. It's not like it's a traditional bot or that's benefiting anyone. Specifics probably don't matter to them though or if it's even being handled by an actual person lmao.

sounds about right. I run a bot farm and I swear theres a correlation with member days left when they decide to ban your bots. There will be waves of bans and my bots with 1-3 days membership left will survive, whereas my bots that I just bonded, will get wiped. I'll renew the 1-3 days memberships and they will be banned after the next session of botting. Just too many times it's happened to be coincidental. I swear they take that into account when banning. That's my tinfoil hat talking though.

It would be very interesting to see what all variables come into play for their bans, but of course it's not realistic to be provided such info as it would allow people to take advantage of it in attempt to avoid bans haha. Regardless, it's stupid that a "bot" like this one for Twitch Plays gets banned.
