Thread: How did you celebrate this year's Mother's Day?

Digitly - May 13, 2024, 3:56 am

Since my mother had passed away due to cancer, I visited her grave, put some fresh flowers on it, and prayed.

How did you celebrate this Mother's Day?

I was sick so didnt, but i called her and talked for a while, hope to compensate her later with a gift or something

I do not speak to my mother, as she only ever wanted money from me, as soon as I started earning it.

Never received motherly love, so I just chose to leave and never turn back.

Did some cooking and let the ladies enjoy their day. You know, just tried to be nice.

Unfortunately it wasn't due to physical distance, but my mom is always in my heart.

I'm saddened to hear that, brother. It's really tough not having Mom with you this Mother's Day.

How I wish I could easily go to our family house and visit my Mom every mother's day and her birthday. Yesterday, I spent nearly an hour video calling her, cherishing every moment of our conversation. ?

Yes, please buy her the best gift you can afford.

With depression, sadness and resentment.

I did not specifically celebrate mothers day, but I did eat some good food with pops. We talked about how much we missed my mom. First time without her this year, she is truly missed.

I hope everybody had a good day regardless if they celebrated it or not, and that life keeps moving forward with prosperity.

That's unfortunate that your mom is dead. I got my mom and both grandmas a chocolate bar and $10 each.
