Here's 11 Minutes of people crying because of me on Call of Duty.
Got called a Hacker a few times :)

I absolutely love when you make these montages, it's so funny, you're lighting their asses up and they get so mad and call you garbage. By the way, send me your gun loadout in convos.

Been a while since I've touched MW3. Been on Cyberpunk and Dead by Daylight lately. Whenever I get back on the game, I'll let you know the loadouts.

You excited for the next cod? You always seem to be big on grinding them for a while each year. How you feeling about the little we've seen so far? Should find a lot more out in a couple of weeks too from the conference.

Treyarch is the last hope honestly. I'm looking forward to it, but I'm not exactly "Hyped" since I stopped ever since all of these cod games recently have been getting worse. I will be playing it and grinding out the camos and challenges like every year.

Same boat I'm in. Looking forward to it, but not necessary excited if that makes sense. It is a Treyarch cod which have often been better than those from other devs. It's also the cod with the most development time ever I believe so that SHOULD make a big and positive difference. Only time will tell I guess though.
