TOR Browser is indeed accessible without verification.

Download it here:

You can use tor to browse...but if you don't have something specific in mind, don't waste your time with it.

I think it's a great browser, with a lot of potential when used appropriately. I don't know about being able to log in to anything without verification, I believe if anything it will trigger verification due to the way the browser works. It's used by an array of people, from hackers to journalists.. all for their own reasons. You can get the download link from their official website - <https://www.torproject.org>

I tried without verifying and had to send $2.500 to [deleted] to verify. I sent the money and never got verified.
