That might be the play lowkey. The winner of this takes it, puts $50 on top and does a $100. Then it just continues on from there LOL. Unfortunately the vast majority of people that could win would understandably want to keep it for themselves so it's unlikely something like this would happen. Maybe you could get it to carry on for 1-2 times tops and if you're lucky, but that's prob it. Would be crazy to see happen across the span of a few months though and it just grows and grows haha.

His account is currently under investigation so he's locked out of course and until that comes to an end. If he's found guilty of whatever than he'll be closed I assume since that's normally how that goes. If not than he'll of course be put back to normal and can access it again. We shall see what happens.

Chances are he was either already in talks with the guy he scammed, reached out to him and was waiting for a reply, or just wanted a bigger payout than what you gave him. I think he hit a lick on the other guy for like $400-500 so obviously a good bit more than your deal was for with him haha.

Get 25k, flip it like 10 times with a nice green streak, and then you're basically back to where you were before ?

Hah, nah, with the way my luck goes on the big ones, I'd be hitting you up for more. Nice play.

I swear, my flips below 100 bytes I hit like 75% of. Flips between 100-1000 are about 50-50, and anything over 1k is like 30%. So I have to flip low.

Lol tell me about it bro. It's part of my daily ritual almost to check HF before work, and then throughout the day.

I've always viewed it as if you have the time to be able to browse HF but also keep up your irl & work life, then both are absolutely fine. It's when one starts taking over the other you should re-assess lol. But luckily I've always been able to even them out in terms of not allowing one to distract me too bad from the other etc..

Intriguing proposition... but alas, I think not.

I'll probably invest it very wisely in a cryptocurrency that will yield me results over many moons and then roll around in my profits like a happy puppy.
