Thread: Award panel for exclusive awards

Perfect - May 28, 2024, 7:02 pm

Hey everyone,

Perfect here with a fun suggestion that I think could add a lot of excitement to our community on Hackforums. What if we created an Award Market with exclusive awards available for purchase on certain days but on a constant rotation? This could help promote growth and keep the level of excitement high with exclusive and seasonal awards.

How It Could Work:

- Designate specific days where exclusive awards are available for purchase.
- Mint these awards for specific seasons or events, similar to how we do with holiday awards.
- Limit the availability to a certain number of awards during the time period to maintain exclusivity.
- Ensure these awards are not achievable via posting or making blogs, keeping them unique to the market.

Benefits:

- Encourages more member activity and participation.
- Adds a fun and competitive element to collecting awards.
- Keeps the community engaged with periodic new releases.
- Promotes a sense of achievement and exclusivity among members.

Your Thoughts?

What do you all think? I'd love to hear your feedback and any ideas you might have to make this even better. Let's discuss and see if we can bring this to life!

Stay awesome and let's keep growing together!
And as always Perfect Loves ya !

Idk tbh, I think the awards are exclusive for a reason.
Usually earned no?

See but what I'm referring to is the old days I miss member of the month. The grind to earn an award. But we all missed out on the cool ones.

We could create a shop like a time capsule and make it extremely exclusive:)

The only thing I think would be cool to see return would be MoTM.

unfortunately, it got ruined due to it becoming a popularity contest.

I think this would be a cool idea with a whole new set of awards specific for this and not past awards, but I just don't see this happening. HF has a list of more important things to focus on and unfortunately awards are not on that list.

Awards too common already now imo.

I'm practically swimming in awards.

The goal is to make it more achievable for us to :)

So for instance

Let's say today is hump dayyyy
Oh shit godly camel award on sale today
Only ($x) and only (x) available use the award and "mint" it by making it exclusive to that particular time of day and week.

We could come up with hundreds..

More intricate designs/exclusives = more money.

I think not. The Award Goals are just fine.

Agreed. The current system is great as it is. I expect given your reply that people will shift to then asking for more award goals which seems more reasonable and appealing on all fronts. I can't recall if you've talked about adding more in the future already, but even if not than I'm sure you've thought about it at least. Maybe you even already have some ideas in the works. Regardless, hoping to see some new ones myself as well at some point.

This seems unnecessary with Award Goals page. It sorta sounds like you want an awards market, which also exists but is disabled.

I think that the current award system is sufficient. There are already many ways to be granted awards and adding to that would just take away from the current system.

Cooligan - May 31, 2024, 5:34 am

Personally I'd much rather it stay as it is with the OG awards. They're non-purchasable for a reason, you have to earn them. That's been the largest appeal with OG awards is having to earn them. Feels that much better when Omni decides to grant you one.

Except they're all for sale. They lost their main prestige long ago. They're still neat to have though.

Don't see the benefit of this.

True to a certain extent I suppose. You know what I mean though in terms of OG awards.

Seems this this thread has been stopped.

Have a great one.

On to the next idea.
