

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: I know how to mod android apps, what's next?

Mino101 - May 31, 2024, 10:39 am

I can pretty say with confidence that I attained a decent level at modding android apps, mostly adding custom features that either affect functionality or appearance. I can also unlock premium but I'd rather not.

What do you advise me to do now, in order to make use of this skill? I can't find any demand on the internet, how can I possibly find some people interested in getting my help?

happygonutty - May 31, 2024, 5:49 pm

(May 31, 2024 10:39 AM)Mino101 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I can pretty say with confidence that I attained a decent level at modding android apps, mostly adding custom features that either affect functionality or appearance. I can also unlock premium but I'd rather not.

What do you advise me to do now, in order to make use of this skill? I can't find any demand on the internet, how can I possibly find some people interested in getting my help?

Post your services on classified ads but don't highlight the part of removing licenses or bypassing stuff. You can also post reverse engineering android apps in websites such as Fiverr or Upwork. I myself post at Upwork and I get decent amount of messages in regards with reverse engineering but not just android apps. ?