UNLIMITED ENTRIES!

So my uncles fish died and he left a bunch of bytes in his will which went to me along with a letter, and in the letter it read to pass the wealth onto some folks who want/need it, so i said fuck it we up now, and I decided to host my own giveaway

UPGRADED MEMBERS:

- Quick love the post
- Max popularities
- Give me 3 reasons why Google took "Don't be evil" out of their company (Fact or Fiction)

UN-UPGRADED MEMBERS:

- Answer the question: If I was a worm, would you still love me?
- Tag an un-upgraded member on the forum who hasn't been tagged before
- Tag an upgraded member on the forum (Can be tagged before)

CONTEST:

Two un-upgraded users will receive two 60 day l33t upgrades

Two upgraded users will receive 2500 bytes each (The equivalent of a 60 day l33t upgrade)

Giveaway ends 6/5 (In 3 days) but may be extended if not enough entries are submitted by that time.

Thanks for hosting! QLed and gave +pop.

1. Many workers were frustrated and even leaving due to the hypocrisy behind it.
2. They thought they could better word what they meant by it.
3. Potential legal issues forced their hand.

Good luck everyone!

Have given you +pop before, now quick love this thread and posting for my entry.

Thanks for hosting this giveaway contest.

1. The phrase "Don't be evil" might have been seen as legally risky in certain contexts.
3. This could have been a strategic move to distance the company from any perception of arrogance or moral superiority.
2. This could reflect a broader shift in how the company defines and communicates its values internally, aligning them with the changing dynamics of the tech industry and workforce.

Hello, thanx for the contest

Reason

- 1-they wanna make us satisfied, or that is what they think
- 2- they will move any thing they suspect is bad
- 3- they do what they want, dont care what u want

Count me in as well!

Three reasons as follows:

1. Modern corporations are a monopoly and don't care about the greater good or evil
2. Employees got worked up over it living a certain motto
3. Lawsuits filed against them, causing them to lose money

Absence - June 2, 2024, 10:51 am

Probably made new people feel like there was an inherently evil problem with the company.

Maybe they decided evil is needed to balance out all the good they allowed.

Maybe it got too tricky to answer who or what was evil to new employees, and did not want to violate legal practices.

Since you seem to have just upgraded (congrats), I'll go ahead and count this towards the upgraded 2500 byte giveaway

Thanks for hosting this.

Google mightve done it to:

1. Shift to something better suited for their brand.
2. Good and evil are sometimes relative.
3. They cant prevent people from doing bad things so it would be hyporitical to keep it.

Rahul007rhp - June 3, 2024, 2:08 am

Thanks for hosting this OP.

These might be the reason:

1. Corporate Evolution: Outdated for Alphabet Inc.'s broader scope.
2. Flexibility: Legal and business constraints.
3. Reputation: Reduced criticism and scrutiny.

Eran - June 3, 2024, 6:43 am

Thanks for hosting!

1. Many workers were annoyed by the slogan.
2. Legally risky.
3. Changes in the company.

gl all

Betty Blue - June 3, 2024, 6:50 am

1. Privacy Laws
2. They own Epsteins Island
3. The government that lets them do what they do now doesn't care about their slogan for the public image

Stanley - June 3, 2024, 12:34 pm

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. The OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
Stanley

Lets get some unupgraded members upgraded!

gwiz - June 3, 2024, 10:06 pm

Count me in

1. worker no likey
2. google big geh
3. they rather go lgbtq++applesauce

Prettykitty - June 3, 2024, 11:08 pm

1. Seems like they are not not evil.
2. They're too big to make sound promises like that now.
3. The employees that started this motto are long gone.

Peffer - June 4, 2024, 6:43 am

Count me in

1. Google has moving out from took our money for no reason
2. The worker has return to be a human
3. We not need an angel while surfing the internet. lol

Omniscient - June 4, 2024, 10:10 am

LMPara is going to create a new contest because there are no entries from non-upgraded members.
