Thread: Award market back?

Jamika - June 19, 2024, 5:30 am

Hello every one

So i was checking extras as usual when i saw award market

I am new here so i didn't attend time when it was available

So what u think? Was it good? Do u wanna it back? Will u sell if available or buy?

Never experienced this. You could buy awards from other members?

i think this has been suggested multiple times already , i would like to have it back but there were some flaws with it before which is why it was closed i believe. So maybe bring it back but with some improvements :)

Hmm, fair

But i don't why? If u can't buy or sell because this decreases its value, he can still get them directly from forum, or omni meant no one will purchase them from hf itself?

I think HF Awards carry a lot of significance and having a marketplace could actually ruin the awards reputation on the forum.

I've seen some competitor forums that have a market place for awards and man, it's just filled with junk, low quality awards.

What would be cool is if Omni allowed transfer of awards but for a house fee. Maybe based on award rarity.

If you're saying fair and therefor presumably understanding Omni's reasoning, I don't get the questioning it afterwards. He explained why. He's also been very firm on seeing that feature as a failure, not bringing it back, and isn't a fan of it coming back being suggested.

2 years since he visited the idea.

He might have a change of heart, with the state of the forum. Awards already don't hold the biggest value, so allow users to exchange them wouldn't decrease their "value" persay.

It would have the benefit of creating a rush of pseudo-"activity" though? So worth revisiting the idea imo.

I believe I've seen him a lot more recently than that reply to someone about it saying essentially the same stuff, but I could be wrong of course. Tried to find the post, but I believe it was on a thread that wasn't specifically about the award market so naturally it's sort of hard to find, assuming it exists.

Either way, always a possibility he has or could change his mind I suppose.
