I wouldn't care the ground is the ground we are on the fucking ground money is money it moves people these simple things make it so that even if you are living a lie and your life is the Truman show it wouldn't matter aslong as you had money then you have power power means you get to choose your own course.

I mean that's a fair opinion honestly i think if it meant I was safe from anything bad ever happening i would rather be in a Truman show type thing

In the sense that we lived in a manufactured existence I believe we pretty much are heading that way. My nature is to break out of it and find the real world and control the show possibly or abandon it.

Dude, honestly, even though it was simulated; Truman had a pretty damn good life lmao. I would sit back, relax, and enjoy my planned and simulated life.
