Thread: What's a simple pleasure in life that never fails to make you happy?

For me it's riding a bike and explore the nature, it makes me calm and i really love it

Lots of things honestly. Time with friends/family, gaming, music, food, etc. Obviously there could be more severe circumstances where they aren't going to have the same positive effect they would in 99% of cases, but that will be the case for basically anything you could put under the kind of category you mentioned.

Much love to all of our pets for sure. Definitely up there for many of us as a simple pleasure. We're very lucky to have them.
