For me is trust issues, tell me yours

Pr0m3th3us - July 16, 2024, 10:53 am

Paying rent. So god damn annoying and having to resign the lease is always a huge hassle

Deany - July 16, 2024, 11:34 am

Idk mane I just want money namean

DemonAsylum - July 16, 2024, 12:22 pm

Damn, that's a tough question. I'd say stress, but that could go a couple of different ways as it could in turn mean getting rid of all of the things that cause me stress, or it could be like a genie twisting your wish type shit where all of those things still exist, you just don't give a shit anymore Imao.

Before I had 2 problems in life which was this and procrastination. Since I have outgrown trust issues for the fact that overtime people change from time to time based on environment and morality, the only thing that keeps me from reaching my goals is procrastination. ?

Procrastination is another solid answer. I think many of us struggle with that. I know I have a FUCK ton Imao.

Depression/sadness. It can really be overwhelming at times.

Sadness is a part of life and can teach us a lot imo. I can get the surface level appeal of getting rid of it, but wouldn't consider it a "one thing" that would be better above all else to eliminate. Depression makes more sense for those that deal with it on a severe/consistent level. Definitely does suck.

Being nervous for sure, and being kind to people too

Prawnster - July 20, 2024, 11:39 am

Tax is the only right answer and the best bit... You too can dodge the taxman!

BlackRock - July 20, 2024, 4:05 pm

Procrastination. Working on it.

Aeowulf - July 20, 2024, 4:07 pm

If I can still keep my house and car... my debt. Then I'd be set.

gwiz - July 20, 2024, 4:45 pm

Illnesses.

Or simply headaches.

Damn, you must get them a lot or very badly when you do if that's what you're picking.

F4tDoinkz - July 20, 2024, 7:38 pm

See I wanna say stress but honestly that kind of what keeps us going imo lol. Though being stress free would feel amazing. If could eliminate the need for money that would be nice.

Nah I think stress is a solid answer. I get what you meant as maybe you know the saying pressure makes diamonds and then there are some similarly themed quotes, but yeah I have to assume stress does generally way more bad than good and across all people lol.

Yea, I had one all day yesterday. They ruin my mood and motivation but I hate taking advil for it and still have to push myself. I think winter will help though ?

They're definitely not fun and especially those that just linger for a whole day or even into the next. Thankfully I don't get them that extreme much, but I do for sure get them in general occasionally.

Well, I have various minor things I would take away; more of me just picking apart my life like a goddamn Steak. My biggest would have to be my insecurities. It has been chronic, and due to the way that I was raised.

Insecurities definitely blow. Sorry for whatever all you deal with regarding them. Wish you the best with overcoming all of that and hopefully one day becoming truly happy and confident with every bit of who you are. Be proud my friend!

It does, but it has been something I've been working on practically my whole life and for the first time ever; I finally feel like it's getting better. Cheers man, I really do appreciate that!

Anxiety and panic attacks. I would not wish them on my worst enemy. 100% totally not a good time.

The same for me. And self doubt. And stress. But suffering from anxiety and panick attacks might be one of the worst things.

I am far from the worst anxiety I experienced om a day to day basis. and I hope to never go back to it.

Zalbai - August 5, 2024, 5:23 am

I would want to remove the need for sleep. That would give me a lot more time!
