How do botnets spread there network?
theres firewalls, different networks and routers?

like what devices are botnets even using? is it like the homedesk top? or like my wifi connected fan? or something like a entire data center?

I dont understand how you would even get to spread the viris to connect these devices and the code for the main sever. I would use python how would you ensure all devices are still connected And what if the devices lose connection? cuz they change networks?
