this thing died out but mine is buried

Sadly I didn't play much Black Ops 2 and so I missed out on a lot of the zombies stuff it had to offer. I did play a bit of it with a couple of friends that were mainly just into zombies on there, but I definitely can't recall even completing an easter egg on there LOL.

Got to be origins, just such a master crafted Easter Egg. I never did buried but off the top of my head I remember it being extremely co-ordinated and extremely difficult.

Knowing how intricate some of the past cod zombies easter eggs have been, it has me excited for the upcoming game as I know traditional round based zombies is back and where they'll no doubt have easter eggs again.

Unfortunately I haven't gotten to play any games in about a year and half. But I missed the old cods, I stopped really buying the newer ones. MW3, BO2, BO3 will never topped in my eyes. BO3 zombies is highly underrated tho when you look at the perfect map of shadows of evil for example.

Why the lack of being able to play recently? And I've continued to get cod each year, but man it's been less and less fun to me and less and less play time as the years go by ?

I had a son last april and moved 3 hrs away at 17, didn't bring my playstation with but now I only got time at night to program and stuff, but I do miss playing fifa, ufc and stuff.

I watched someone playing, the new cod? honestly no idea the other night on discord - I couldn't even tell it was cod, it looked awful. H ewas playing zombies and it was just constant challenges and 0 effort to play, unlike back in the day - 2 hit deaths

Ahh I see, I see. As for CoD, the new one comes out in late October. I guess the current cod game is never that "old" though as they come out each year haha.

Seems Origins is one that many players lean towards as a favorite.
