Thread: Best Live Band

I haven't seen many live bands, usually because I don't want to be disappointed. Some of them when you hear them live it's drastically different from what autotune did for them. I think the best show I've ever seen, and I'm saying so good that it made me not want to see another band because it couldn't live up to it. Trans-Siberian Orchestra.

They put on an amazing show. Which band did you see that truly lived up to your expectations or blew them away?

I haven't attended many Live concerts.

however, I have enjoyed Twenty One Pilots for a while, and when I saw videos of their live performance, it felt crazy good.

If they ever have a concert near me, I will be definitely considering it ignoring the fact I'm very introverted.

See they were actually one of the bands that made me hate live shows. I saw them on Saturday Night Live, which doesn't allow their performers to lip sync and it was so bad. They didn't sound anything like their album. Same with Macklemore.

I have seen some of their live-concerts on YT and even their collab with mutemath. There was no lip sync, and I thought they sounded pretty good but won't disagree with you. Album versions are way better, Mutemath collab felt kinda unique as well but overall, album versions are better.
