

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Do you have any piercings?

blackrose_x0x0 - August 4, 2024, 10:11 am

Who here has piercings?

I first got my ear pierced when I was 16 and thought I was so cool but stopped wearing any kind of earrings for many years afterward. I had some friends who gauged their ears but never did myself. I liked to keep it simple. I now rock a few different piercings on my ears. I don't wear them at work though. Thinking about getting more but we'll see.

Charlie Sheen - August 4, 2024, 11:59 am

Nah. I had my left ear pierced when I was 14 or 15 but I haven't actually worn anything in it almost ever. I think I wore a piercing for a month or two.

V?rt - August 4, 2024, 4:04 pm

I don't currently. I had my nose pierced a few years back and thought about going get it re-done but I'm not sure if I will

Deany - August 4, 2024, 4:05 pm

I heard vert has a nipple piercing ?

padrino - August 4, 2024, 4:06 pm

nah never had anything done. Thought about my ears when I was in my emo teenager phase but always pussied out haha

Zalbai - August 4, 2024, 4:10 pm

No. That's not healthy...

DashPHP - August 5, 2024, 3:07 am

(Aug 4, 2024 04:10 PM)Zalbai Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No. That's not healthy...
Not sure about healthy...

OT; nah nothing here. I too like to keep things simple.

Zalbai - August 5, 2024, 4:18 am

(Aug 5, 2024 03:07 AM)DashPHP Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not sure about healthy...

OT; nah nothing here. I too like to keep things simple.
Why not sure?

Now you're forcing me to write the reason. :D

Any form of skin penetration carries a risk of infection, especially if the wound is not properly cared for or if the materials used are not sterile. Some people have allergic reactions to the materials used in piercings, with low-quality metals often causing problems. Additionally, improper technique during piercing can damage nerves or tissues, potentially leading to ongoing pain or functional impairments. Piercings can also leave noticeable scars, particularly if the area becomes inflamed or infected.

In the Bible, the act of piercing and tattooing is considered taboo, as such actions are viewed as disrespectful to the temple of God.

DashPHP - August 5, 2024, 9:25 am

(Aug 5, 2024 04:18 AM)Zalbai Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why not sure?

Now you're forcing me to write the reason. :D

Any form of skin penetration carries a risk of infection, especially if the wound is not properly cared for or if the materials used are not sterile. Some people have allergic reactions to the materials used in piercings, with low-quality metals often causing problems. Additionally, improper technique during piercing can damage nerves or tissues, potentially leading to ongoing pain or functional impairments. Piercings can also leave noticeable scars, particularly if the area becomes inflamed or infected.

In the Bible, the act of piercing and tattooing is considered taboo, as such actions are viewed as disrespectful to the temple of God.

By your logic, eating chocolate is considered not healthy.

But in reality, moderation is key when eating junk food, and hygiene is key for piercings.

Zalbai - August 5, 2024, 11:47 am

(Aug 5, 2024 09:25 AM)DashPHP Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) By your logic, eating chocolate is considered not healthy.

But in reality, moderation is key when eating junk food, and hygiene is key for piercings.

I understand your point about moderation, but I think there are some important differences between eating junk food and the topic of piercings. While junk food does have health risks, most people can enjoy it in moderation without risking immediate or lasting harm. Piercings, on the other hand, are invasive procedures and always involve some degree of risk, regardless of hygiene or technique. Even with the best care, there is always the possibility of infections or other complications that may not occur immediately but can have long-term consequences.

It's more about recognizing the potential risks and weighing them carefully. Everyone should make their own individual choices about what is right for them, but it is also important to have comprehensive information in order to make informed decisions.

DashPHP - August 5, 2024, 3:28 pm

(Aug 5, 2024 11:47 AM)Zalbai Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I understand your point about moderation, but I think there are some important differences between eating junk food and the topic of piercings. While junk food does have health risks, most people can enjoy it in moderation without risking immediate or lasting harm. Piercings, on the other hand, are invasive procedures and always involve some degree of risk, regardless of hygiene or technique. Even with the best care, there is always the possibility of infections or other complications that may not occur immediately but can have long-term consequences.

It's more about recognizing the potential risks and weighing them carefully. Everyone should make their own individual choices about what is right for them, but it is also important to have comprehensive information in order to make informed decisions.

Junk food has very little nutritional benefits, with Diabetes on the massive rise in recent years. But yeah, it totally is different to piercings..

lol

Moderation and Hygiene is the key. Nothing else. Live you life good.

happygonutty - August 5, 2024, 3:32 pm

(Aug 4, 2024 10:11 AM)Bloodbyte Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who here has piercings?

I first got my ear pierced when I was 16 and thought I was so cool but stopped wearing any kind of earrings for many years afterward. I had some friends who gauged their ears but never did myself. I liked to keep it simple. I now rock a few different piercings on my ears. I don't wear them at work though. Thinking about getting more but we'll see.

Well, I had lip piercing like 2 decades ago and earrings but I never did piercing ever again since I got obsessed with tattoos. ? Anyways, I was thinking of having ear gauges but I am still weighing reality and what people would think of my appearance. Lol. ?

SIM-1169085 - August 5, 2024, 4:17 pm

I have no piercings myself, but I think it's awesome how you went back to rocking them after so many years. Sounds like you have a cool style going on.

Jamika - August 5, 2024, 5:28 pm

(Aug 4, 2024 10:11 AM)Bloodbyte Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who here has piercings?

I first got my ear pierced when I was 16 and thought I was so cool but stopped wearing any kind of earrings for many years afterward. I had some friends who gauged their ears but never did myself. I liked to keep it simple. I now rock a few different piercings on my ears. I don't wear them at work though. Thinking about getting more but we'll see.

No for sure, if i was a girl though i would made a nose one lol

Syndicate - August 6, 2024, 12:34 am

(Aug 4, 2024 10:11 AM)Bloodbyte Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who here has piercings?

I first got my ear pierced when I was 16 and thought I was so cool but stopped wearing any kind of earrings for many years afterward. I had some friends who gauged their ears but never did myself. I liked to keep it simple. I now rock a few different piercings on my ears. I don't wear them at work though. Thinking about getting more but we'll see.

I did have quite a few but I let them all close up. I had snake bites, 00 gauged ears and regular ears pierced before that. But I've taken them out since then and let them all close up

Bastille - August 6, 2024, 12:35 am

Both ears, I had one on the left nipple but I removed it after few years

blackrose_x0x0 - August 6, 2024, 3:55 am

(Aug 5, 2024 04:17 PM)Psalms51 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have no piercings myself, but I think it's awesome how you went back to rocking them after so many years. Sounds like you have a cool style going on.

Thanks bro. I had gotten into a funk in my earlier years letting people dictate how I dress and act now I don't really give a fuck haha.

Moooookie - August 6, 2024, 3:57 am

I have both my ears pierced, had that done back when I was in middle school. I remember the times when men would only get one ear pierced, and over time it transitioned into men getting both of their ears pierced. That's about as far as I will go with piercings.

Shreklover9 - August 8, 2024, 9:17 am

Used to have nipple piercing but took em out because it would hurt like a mf if they got snagged on something

Purgatory - August 15, 2024, 11:23 pm

I do have piercings lol.

famoupo - August 16, 2024, 2:41 am

I got one one my ear a big ine