

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Skechers

Slumerican ? - August 6, 2024, 6:48 am

I recently purchased my first pair of Skechers, specifically the "Skechers Memory Foam" model, after hearing rave reviews about their lightweight comfort. As someone who spends over 12 hours a day on their feet, I'm eager to put them to the test. Initial impressions are positive - they look and feel great. I'm considering branching out from Nike and Adidas, and Skechers has been a promising start. I'm also interested in trying Salomon for casual walking and hiking in the future. Have any of you had experience with Skechers or other alternative brands?

Deany - August 6, 2024, 6:48 am

Wtf I always thought it was named Sketchers
Mandela effect be wild

Slumerican ? - August 6, 2024, 6:51 am

(Aug 6, 2024 06:48 AM)Deany Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wtf I always thought it was named Sketchers
Mandela effect be wild
You are a Sketchy prick :P lol

Jamika - August 6, 2024, 7:25 am

(Aug 6, 2024 06:48 AM)Slumerican ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I recently purchased my first pair of Skechers, specifically the "Skechers Memory Foam" model, after hearing rave reviews about their lightweight comfort. As someone who spends over 12 hours a day on their feet, I'm eager to put them to the test. Initial impressions are positive - they look and feel great. I'm considering branching out from Nike and Adidas, and Skechers has been a promising start. I'm also interested in trying Salomon for casual walking and hiking in the future. Have any of you had experience with Skechers or other alternative brands?

Tried one from active, and it actually deserve every penny paid for it, good for me in work, little expensive but good

Truth - August 7, 2024, 7:06 pm

I have skechers but been told they look like "dad shoes" lol

crocs are more comfortable and convenient imo mainly cause you can use them without socks, if you try most shoes with even low sock cuts, they can leave you rash or cut on ankle I've found

overall, croc style ftw but of course people will complain about the look

Charlie Sheen - August 7, 2024, 11:36 pm

(Aug 7, 2024 07:06 PM)Truth Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have skechers but been told they look like "dad shoes" lol

crocs are more comfortable and convenient imo mainly cause you can use them without socks, if you try most shoes with even low sock cuts, they can leave you rash or cut on ankle I've found

overall, croc style ftw but of course people will complain about the look

Ya see I prefer crocs for their style over their comfort..

I have adidas, best pair of shoes I've owned yet. I actually liked them so much I went online and ordered a second pair of the same shoes.

Slumerican ? - August 8, 2024, 4:34 am

(Aug 7, 2024 07:06 PM)Truth Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have skechers but been told they look like "dad shoes" lol

crocs are more comfortable and convenient imo mainly cause you can use them without socks, if you try most shoes with even low sock cuts, they can leave you rash or cut on ankle I've found

overall, croc style ftw but of course people will complain about the look Well I don't know about dad shoes... I think they look pretty simple and cool!

Eran - August 8, 2024, 7:11 am

Never had any Skechers shoes even though a lot of people recommended them.

Slumerican ? - August 8, 2024, 7:15 am

(Aug 8, 2024 07:11 AM)Eran Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Never had any Skechers shoes even though a lot of people recommended them.

So far, so good! While it's too early for me to wholeheartedly recommend Skechers, I think they're a good choice.