

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Favorite piece of survival equipment?

LMPara - August 8, 2024, 10:02 am

Had a discussion with a few buddies, and we got on the topic of, what is our FAVORITE piece of survival equipment? Or something that you WANT to bring with you, even if you need it?

Mine would personally be one of those giant green propane torches. You can do a LOOOT with them. They are perfect fire starters (of course), they can be used as a weapon if needed due to the length of their flame, they last a loooong time, and my biggest use for them is the fact that they are great for heating something up QUICKLY. Get a bad cut or gash and it needs to be cauterized asap? Spark that sucker up, hold it up to any small piece of metal, and BAM, instant heat and instant cauterization to whatever u heated up when applied to the skin. Wonderful tool with so many uses for both every day and survival living.

Jamika - August 8, 2024, 12:35 pm

A gun, so u can steal and attack others, will be mu choice

Pr0m3th3us - August 8, 2024, 12:42 pm

A quality knife, 6 in blade minimum.

#TR0J4N - August 8, 2024, 2:56 pm

Pocket from gridbase basically your own internet with tons of resources and guides on how to survive in case of a global blackout, it is fascinating. I have seen a youtube video about it I think it is a cool thing to have.

<https://www.gridbase.net/products/pocket>

[Video: <https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=qxyYB8RBbJs>]

padrino - August 8, 2024, 4:41 pm

Fixed blade, full-tang knife for sure. Bonus points if the sheath has a fire steel holder.