Thread: Looking for beginner hackers to learn with

StinkButt420 - August 10, 2024, 12:26 am

Hello.

I'm looking for very new beginner hackers to start a learning group with. The end goal is to host our own CTF and KOTH games. I'm searching for 9 people.

I'm looking for younger guys/gals, I'm not in my 20s yet. I'd primarily talk in Discord, but maybe I'd get Telegram to do it there if we must.

No illegal activity, just a group sharing resources, learning together, sharing passion, etc.

Hell, we'll even name ourselves.

If you're serious about learning, I am mentoring one person right now and I wouldn't mind taking on one more person. Obviously it wouldn't be free, but I am pretty reasonable for what I offer considering my experience.

Great idea as long as you keep all discussion on HF or upgrade your account.

Hey, that sounds awesome! I'm really interested in joining a group like this. I'm down to chat on Discord too. just send me a DM

This sounds good in theory, but if you are wanting to learn proper methods and techniques, then wouldn't it be wise to have at least 1 experienced member in the group to be able to help, direct you in the right path and answer your questions? I don't mean someone to tell you what to do, as that wouldnt really be learning, which is your goal, but someone to help you if you get stuck.

I'm too new, I can't shoot a PM. Time to do some trolling.

Not really, I just need to be more active. Says "high quality" posts are what I need. Now I just need to dig and find something interesting I can rant or talk about for hours.

Amazing idea. Doing walkthroughs can help, but having one guy with real experience/knowledge keeping it from going definition rag-tag could be VERY useful.

If you click on someones profile, on the top right hand side, there is a chat bubble, click it - it starts a private chat in the convo area of the forum.

Ill be more than willing to help you if you need/want. My time is somewhat limited at the moment due to studies, but i come on a few hours a day when i need a break.

I have a Discord for beginners. That was before I knew that only vendors can share Discord servers. Learn the rules in the Help Docs if you want to stay safe and stay a member.

Where did you get your certification by the way? Is it a long process?

It was about 10 months of a course from TheCyberMentor, one from ITPro.tv, a study guide, and EC-Council's course, plus plenty of practice tests.

It's not cheap, but you'll learn a lot. I didn't actually pay for it; my employer provided it on a secondary platform. There are others that have ITPro.tv courses that you may get for a cheaper subscription or buy like icollege.
