Thread: Thoughts on Black Ops 6

SyncOG - August 10, 2024, 10:49 am

After the recent call of duty games, there hasn't been as much hype for a COD game in a while. However, with the new Black ops 6 trailer, it looks quite a bit better from the previous few call of duty games. How good do you think it will be. Would it be better than Black ops 3 possibly, or that's too much to ask? I think it could be better than Cold War which itself was pretty rough. If this surpasses or gets close to Black ops 3, then it could be a really good call of duty game. What do you think?

They had a good 4 years of development time to make this game and what they've been releasing and what's been leaked, it actually hyped me up. They've been cooking this entire time and Treyarch hasn't really missed honestly.

Going to be fun, just hope the ac is better. No fun when so many others are able to cheat on the game without being banned

Same here, I just hope that there aren't any "corporate changes" that swiftly come in.
