What do you think about the Captain America movie coming in 2025? Is there anyone waiting for this?

Besides Deadpool. I'd say the marvel universe is pretty much dead to me. I lost complete interest after Endgame with the exception of Spiderman no way home.

Yes, Marvel used to have a quality, but not anymore

I wasn't interested in anything after Endgame tbh.

But No Way Home really stepped up, haven't seen Deadpool yet.

Considering they also spending an unfathomable amount of money to bring back RDJ and Russo Brothers to work on this phase, I'm tempted to keep up with movies that would be included in those projects.

To be also fair, not all the movies that were created post Endgame were horrible, for example I expected Shang-Chi to flop, it did the opposite and was very entertaining to watch.

On the other hand, I expected Eternals to do better (both movies released same year), instead it was very mid at best.

Probably will watch Captain America, which is funny considering Captain America is either alive and very old or already dead.

I hope Sam Wilson gets some Super Soldier Serum so he can kick some ass Like Captain America should
