Thread: What happened to the red lions group

Ecce - August 14, 2024, 4:31 pm

Back in like 2015 there was a group that just had one guy in it and he got the group for donating like 5k or 10k to omni or something.

Does anyone remember what happened to that group? Think it was called red lions or something like that I swear the old groups of hf thread had like a changelog? So you could see what each group used to be.

COINED was closed along with the owner, and main leader of the group.

Both Migos and Komodo

That's not the real Red Lions group lol. It's a crew and they're just using the RL userbar.

Tyr - August 16, 2024, 12:54 pm

A lot of old Red Lions are still here. Unfortunately the group is no longer around though.

Was never extradited. Saudis refused to.
They say he was "poisoned" and killed but a lot of people still think he is in hiding and is just under a new identity.
Who knows.

He might of been generous, but was stupid enough to register websites, etc. with his real name and contact information.

On the bright side, I hope everyone invested in LifeLock and other companies like that when the news broke. They'll be through the roof soon.

LifeLock's CEO put his SSN out there publicly to try and show how secure his company was, and it got hacked ffs lol.

LifeLock has always been a joke company to me since that happened.

Many Red Lions members still are active on the forum.

I ran the group for about a year and change - We posted numerous guides and other HQ content under the Red Lion umbrella.

We tried to keep the group alive even in Nokia's absence, but after a certain point, Omni declared the group defunct. It was either get him active online to inform Omni we could keep running it without him, or it goes bye bye.

And that's all she wrote.

I may try and reinstate it at some point in the future.

We'll see.
