What HardWare Wallet You Guys Use?

Trezor? Ledger? Tengem? Manymore out there etc?

There's no security breaches yet? But I heard some with ledger tho? no? Maybe is about the new recovery feature where u can extract the seed via online etc for recovery purposes and shit.

I prefer Trezor over the Ledger.

I've been using Ledger for the past year, had no problems with them so far.

Begin with Coinbase, now Ledger

I have been using ledger nano s for years now.

Yea the recovery thing is literally trash but you would be amazed to know how many people actually use that feature.

I have been trying to looking for a alternative to ledger but haven't found one.

Did look at keystone but then dropped the idea.

Trezor user over here. Just use their phone app to generate receiving address & keep depositing. Never needing to connect your wallet anywhere again (unless you wish to move funds ofcourse)

Which package you got? I see there's $169 and a $59 one.

I have the cheaper one.

I guess all of them would work the same way though.

Tangem and Safepal, this is the two hardware wallets I'm using right now, previously I was using Ledger Wallet.
