Thread: Covid Vaccine

Prepper - August 22, 2024, 7:37 pm

The 25th will mark 3 years since I have received the Covid vaccine. I personally received 2 doses of Pfizer.

I have not received any booster shots.

For those of you who are actually vaccinated how are you holding up?

I personally am holding up fine, no issues related to the vaccine, everyone I know who is vaccinated is also doing fine with no complications or health issues related to the vaccine.

Undead - August 22, 2024, 8:06 pm

Personally, I didn't take it but i'm glad you didn't get any side effects. There's a lot of controversy around the Covid vaccines, I think a lot of it is fear mongering on both sides of the fence.

SIM-3257834 - August 22, 2024, 10:13 pm

2 shots and a booster, still most likely to have a longer expect life span than a antivaxer. Sadly no additional limbs grown, would love a third hand to help me in bed.

I am still waiting on the 5G and Magnetic powers.

Did you get Pfizer or Moderna?

Badge - August 23, 2024, 8:36 am

Same as SIM-3257834 two shots and 1 booster for me, I'm feeling just as normal as I was without the vaccine. If I could go back and not even get it I would I think. But I did get covid later on in the year and that literally floored me for a week. So time to time I wonder if I weren't vaccinated how worse would've/could've been and OP I got Pfizer

So you can slap your own arse at the same time?

I'm vaxxed and boosted and all that, I hadn't even thought about it in a couple of years tbh, but I'm fit as a flea, if it was a flea that spent all day drinking tea and eating biscuits and dicking around online.

Well so far all of the fear mongering and conspiracy theories from the anti-vax side have not come true, we were all supposed to be dead within a week of the vaccine, then 1 month, then 3 months, then 6 months, then 1 year, I believe now it is up to like 15 years, it constantly changes because the millions are not dropping dead like they said so the goal posts have to continuously move. They also used VAERS to incorrectly push their agenda.

Sure there are risks of the vaccine just like any other vaccine or medication, we knew about potential myocarditis risks before the anti-vaxxers got on to it actually it was a concern of mine which is why I discussed it with my doctor prior to getting the vaccine and she told me based on my medical records and her experience I would not get myocarditis and I did not. This is why I always say talk to your doctor first because risks/benefits might change based on a persons health and medical history.

Unfortunately so many lives have been lost due to Covid, many of which could have been prevented with the vaccine early on in the pandemic.

In regards to side effects I did get normal side effects such as a slight temperature increase but not a fever and a very sore arm for a few days.

I have no idea what Baywatch is, but for me I don't know if you may remember growing up we would get those pains often referred to as growing pains? pretty much the same pain or if you are overly working out and get that muscle pain that lasts for days.

It was like that but probably triple the pain, so not unbearable just very sore mostly when moving the arm.

Genuinely curious if anyone spent any real time learning what is in it before taking it. Just a single ingredient? PEG.

I can tell you ingredients it doesn't contain as well... Graphite, parasites, nano particles, nano bots.

(Aug 23, 2024 10:00 AM)Lowkey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Didn't ask about what's not in it but that's good to verify always right?

What made you pull the trigger on it? Like the actual deciding factor?

And now, regardless of you not having anything negative or positive happen as a result of taking it, how do you feel about it?

Oh those are just some of the things anti-vaxxers claim are in it.

I took it as someone who is considered high risk and after talking to my doctor the decision was made, and by the way my doctor had zero benefit recommending it to me because they did not provide vaccines in that office I had to go to the health department.

I also seen what happened with my friends son who was about 3 or 4 years old cannot remember the exact age but her son died from Covid, a healthy kid, unfortunately the vaccine was not around at the time he died.

Another friend ended up on the ventilator and barely made it out, she suffers from PTSD from it and long covid symptoms til this day.

I received during my lifetime measles, mumps, rubella, polio, varicella and others, none of those vaccines harmed me. If I could go back in a time machine would I take the Covid vaccine again during that time? yes.

Will I take a booster currently? no, not unless it starts to be a major outbreak again around me and depending on the severity of the strain.

I don't feel positive or negative about it, it was simply necessary at the time as a high risk person because we already seen many healthy people die from Covid as well as many high risk people die from Covid, not something I personally want to die from.

mRNA vaccines have been in development for over 20+ years, it is not as new as the conspiracy theorists make it out to be, it has a lot of potential even for cancer vaccines, keep in mind regular non mRNA vaccines were available although there was higher risks such as blood clots with J&J especially in women.

You can study into mRNA vaccines and spike proteins in medical journals and peer reviewed studies much better than me explaining it, Spike proteins are not new either and are not specific to just Covid-19 although it seems like conspiracy theorists think so.

I learned a lot from watching Tracy Ruscetti who has a PhD in microbiology and immunology.

What made you choose Astrazeneka? I know there was a slightly increased risk of blood clots with it and J&J mostly in women. I assume by your username you are a female so I am curious on your choice in regards to that.

I never intended to take it and I also talked my mom out of taking it. My brother did get a shot and his immune system is weaker since, nothing serious, but he just gets sick way more often and easy now.

All this show is part of the big plan. The elite planned a mass extinction in 2020, which failed. One of the possibilities is that most of us will experience a "blackout" in the near future, you get up the next morning and see on the news that several billion people have collapsed. Everything is just a possibility, nobody said that it will happen this way. If your health is more important, then you should clean up as soon as possible before it is too late. My colleague was vaccinated three times, including the booster shot. To this day he regrets this decision, as he believes that the vaccine was more harmful than protective. He was sick three times and lay in bed exhausted with a high fever and terrible symptoms. Many other people I know are no longer with us either, although they were previously in perfect health. Young acquaintances of mine have become so ill that they can no longer play basketball or soccer - forever.

A study has shown that Non-Covid-19 mortality among vaccinated people during the pandemic was significantly higher than among unvaccinated people. Why is this not being researched further? If these connections were made public, it could lead to mass panic and a major scandal. People would realize that they had made a fatal mistake. The strategy was simple: create rapid panic and get people to get vaccinated impulsively without thinking much about it. The vaccines were mostly only tested on mice and introduced quickly, leaving no room for skepticism. Human stupidity defeated him, so that many believed that the vaccination would prevent transmission, while they were blind and deaf to alternative information.

Covid-19 pandemic is just a hoax, illusion and fraud.

Current peer reviewed studies shows the vaccines are safe and effective and the risks outweigh the benefits especially for those who are considered high risk.

We knew about myocarditis risks with Pfizer/Moderna, we knew about blood clotting risks with J&J it wasn't hidden.

Literally nothing these conspiracy theorists have claimed would happen has happened, they don't even understand how VAERS works.

I understand your point of view, but is it wise to only take one source into account and believe that they are telling the truth?

Unfortunately, as a vaccinated person, you have not woken up yet, because you probably were not seriously ill with serious symptoms, and none of your relatives or acquaintances died suddenly and unexpectedly. I can assure you that if you are really smart, you will experience the truth at some point in the near future. It may also be that you are one of those people who want to hear what the authorities say. There are enough studies that have proven what is in the vaccines. But since you have had these vaccinations, you do not want to be confronted with the possibilities. That is of course natural, that is how I would react if I were you. Do you know? I know many people who were very brave and waited 2-3 years to see what would happen. After the unofficial studies about the abnormal findings in the vaccine were published, after so many people had sacrificed their lives for this crap, one thing was clear to these people: it is a fraud against humanity. Like the majority of vaccinated people, you want to believe all this absurdity because it is what you want to hear. Do you understand what I am getting at?? It is your defense mechanism like every other person, you simply do not want to believe it because you do not want to be confronted with these consequences. It is very simple. For people like you, what is reported in the media about the safety of vaccines or a single study is enough. There are enough sources and information about the side effects and long-term damage. If you were to lean just a little towards the other side of the coin, you would be afraid because you now have them in you and you would start to protect yourself again. Unfortunately, that is the sad truth that affects every other vaccinated person too.

If that doesn't make sense to you, would it be better to say 'cognitive dissonance' ?

If your door is ajar in your mind, it means that you really don't want to be confronted. You have already received your vaccinations and don't want to be exposed to new information or possibilities that could challenge your decision. In this state, you tend to believe the absurd because it fits the message you want to hear.

Have you considered that you have only been given a tiny bit of information about what is in the vaccine and about the side effects and damage?

I hope I have expressed myself more clearly, more precisely now.

I simply don't believe nonsense like you do, I don't listen to bullshit conspiracy theorists like you do. You clearly follow infowars without a doubt.

In the end I just didn't need a vaccine for something which I had .00001% chance of killing me. Conspiracy Theories or not, I wouldn't have gotten the vaccine. I do not get the Flu Vaccine or any vaccines by Big Pharma. Covid just made it really hit home that I don't trust them and let's say a new virus came out which was actually 50% chance of dying, I'm still not getting their vaccine. I'd rather just hole up in my house and ride it out.

For many people getting the vaccine wasn't a choice. It was forced upon them by their employer or school. I don't agree with that.

Well that is a personal choice of yours which is what it is, but you may very well get that 50% mortality rate virus soon, they aren't showing it much on the MSM but you should look into bird flu.

I wouldn't say it was forced, nobody had a gun held to their head or were tied down to take the vaccine, work places have requirements and it is a requirement they opted for although actual forced vaccination is not against the constitution and the supreme court even ruled so in the past whether or not we agree with it is a different situation.

You aren't in the USA then, there was no students "dragged" into vaccination centers in this country.

Although like I mentioned in a previous post the US constitution does give the authority and supreme court rulings do back it up for forced vaccinations it simply did not happen in the USA.

Were their school requirements and job requirements? yes but that is different from literally being forced.

I cannot speak for how vaccinations were administered in other countries other than Canada because I do know how it went down in Canada.

I explained to you why you, as a vaccinated person like any other vaccinated person, don't want to accept it. These are the basics of human psychology. But you don't seem to have a clue. The fact that you don't want to understand it is due to your ignorance. I would feel exactly the same if I were you, I wouldn't want to accept it because I have had these vaccinations, I have consulted with medical specialists. They are absolutely safe, I have complete trust in doctors. When I read the word "dangerous", I immediately think of nonsense. It just can't be true, I'm not the only one who has been vaccinated. I don't want to be confronted with the possibilities that are against my well-being. I immediately think "must be healthy, healthy. etc." However, my intellect and my heart would never allow me to make the decision to get vaccinated. Would a doctor tell you that you have cancer, would you believe it? No, you certainly wouldn't. Because you don't feel any serious, bad symptoms that could indicate it. It's exactly the same with smoking. If it hadn't been proven in our world that smoking is harmful, would you want to believe that smoking is harmful if you don't feel any symptoms in your body? It's the same with this Covid-19 vaccination. You don't feel anything at the moment, while other vaccinated people collapse, die suddenly and unexpectedly every day. It doesn't mean that you won't feel anything at some point in the future. Maybe you're striving for a healthy lifestyle that creates balance in your body during this crisis. I don't want to say that other vaccinations are bad. But this Covid-19 "vaccination" is not a vaccination. It is a poison, a genocide. The sooner you understand it, the safer your future will be. I really won't give you any sources, you are healthy enough to find it out yourself. The only problem is if you only believe the "doctors" bought by the government; then only your heart can save you. But if your mind, your ignorance takes over and runs towards well-founded, scientifically proven official information and research, then you are lost. I don't want to argue here about who is right or wrong; the truth remains the only, absolute one.

Out of compassion I will provide you with a few videos:

(Aug 29, 2024 04:54 PM)Zalbai Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I explained to you why you, as a vaccinated person like any other vaccinated person, don't want to accept it. These are the basics of human psychology. But you don't seem to have a clue. The fact that you don't want to understand it is due to your ignorance. I would feel exactly the same if I were you, I wouldn't want to accept it because I have had these vaccinations, I have consulted with medical specialists. They are absolutely safe, I have complete trust in doctors. When I read the word "dangerous", I immediately think of nonsense. It just can't be true, I'm not the only one who has been vaccinated. I don't want to be confronted with the possibilities that are against my well-being. I immediately think "must be healthy, healthy. etc." However, my intellect and my heart would never allow me to make the decision to get vaccinated. Would a doctor tell you that you have cancer, would you believe it? No, you certainly wouldn't. Because you don't feel any serious, bad symptoms that could indicate it. It's exactly the same with smoking. If it hadn't been proven in our world that smoking is harmful, would you want to believe that smoking is harmful if you don't feel any symptoms in your body? It's the same with this Covid-19 vaccination. You don't feel anything at the moment, while other vaccinated people collapse, die suddenly and unexpectedly every day. It doesn't mean that you won't feel anything at some point in the future. Maybe you're striving for a healthy lifestyle that creates balance in your body during this crisis. I don't want to say that other vaccinations are bad. But this Covid-19 "vaccination" is not a vaccination. It is a poison, a genocide. The sooner you understand it, the safer your future will be. I really won't give you any sources, you are healthy enough to find it out yourself. The only problem is if you only believe the "doctors" bought by the government; then only your heart can save you. But if your mind, your ignorance takes over and runs towards well-founded, scientifically proven official information and research, then you are lost. I don't want to argue here about who is right or wrong; the truth remains the only, absolute one.

Out of compassion I will provide you with a few videos:

What part do you not understand about the fact that I knew of your bullshit conspiracies before taking the vaccine. So what does me being vaccinated have to do with it when I knew about it prior to vaccination, You literally make no logical sense.

You wont provide peer reviewed studies because you don't got any not because I am "healthy enough to find it myself" that is the usual run away argument of antivaxxers so stop making excuses.

And show me proof all of these mysterious people dying suddenly is anything new and also related to the vaccine, oh wait you can't do that because that whole argument is flawed.

Over 5 billion people worldwide received the vaccine, just because they took the vaccine doesn't magically mean death will stop, it doesn't magically change the fact that people will still die of old age, cancer, heart attacks, car accidents, boat accidents, falls, work accidents, etc like holy shit do you not expect when 150,000 people die each day word wide that some of them will have received the vaccine considering over 5 billion received it?

Died suddenly isn't new it was happening prior to the vaccine, athletes were still dying on the field prior to the vaccine, overall healthy people were still dying prior to the vaccine, welcome to life I know it must be a shocker.

I have to agree with Prepper that the "predictions" conspiracy theorists made regarding the Covid vaccines were complete BS as well as deliberate lies to generate fear and make money. The exact same thing they accuse "Big Pharma" of doing. The conspiracy grifters never own up to their lies and just move on to the next scam. Many of them are now selling "protocols" to cure "vaccine damage". Alex Jones is probably the most successful conspiracy grifter to date but now Stew Peters is being primed to take his place. Stew Peters used to be a degenerate rapper but now he is a conservative icon and prominent "truth teller".

Vaccinated and boosted. Unfortunately I haven't started growing a tail yet or developed x-ray vision.

I believe I remember the tail growing shit the anti-vaxxers were saying.

Care to share which vaccine you took?.

I still got my vax card but yea I know a few people who lost them, you can get a replacement card from the place you received the vaccine from if for any reason you want or need it, a family member had to do that actually.

I took Pfizer, might be considering a booster soon as Covid is ramping up and I had a close call as I was around people who tested positive but luckily did not catch it, and a friend of mine was just telling me yesterday how his friend only 49 years old just caught Covid and unfortunately did not make it off the ventilator.

Sorry to hear about your friends friend, that's rough. I lost a distant family member to covid myself, that was eye opening for sure. Need to look at getting a replacement card, for record keeping purposes, at least to have while traveling in case I need it.

Sorry about your family member, unfortunately there is so many people who had to go through this, so many lives lost that didn't have to be.

Unfortunately many people didn't receive the vaccine some due to medical reasons such as being allergic to ingredients and then we had people who refused the vaccine based on bullshit conspiracies and also refused masks and other measures to help protect others around them.

The anti-vaxxer conspiracy theorists in my opinion are to blame for many other lives being lost.

The anti-vaxxer conspiracy theorists in my opinion are to blame for many other lives being lost. I couldn't agree more. A lot of time and energy wasted on conspiracies and baseless claims. Time and energy that would have been better spent somewhere else. I guess all things considered, I am glad to still be alive and well.
