He can't swat you based on just your IP address. He probably sent you a grabify link or something simple. The IP address just shows a general area that IP could be located. It's not exact. Sometimes mine will come up in Washington or some state I'm nowhere near. You don't have anything to worry about, if you get ddosed then you know who did it. In the future if you're concerned about your IP get a VPN, they are pretty cheap.

The best thing is to completely redo your Opsec

True, probably sent you a link that got your ip copied out for him, what state have you taken to prevent such in future or currently??
