

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Where Do You Go To Find Information About Crypto?

Blockonome - September 1, 2024, 8:47 am

When you are in need of understanding anything crypto related or learn about specific cryptocurrencies or perhaps want to stay up to date with what is happening in the crypto space - Where do you go?

Please let me know which websites or sources you use.

poc - September 1, 2024, 1:32 pm

There is a special guide for exchange and this guide lists the sites that do not require KYC.

Exchange sites

<https://kycnot.me/?t=exchange>

Strict no-KYC policy sites

<https://kycnot.me/attr/ml5r2pv7yo1sqmf>

RangoWorld - September 1, 2024, 1:36 pm

I think Twitter / X is good for fast and insider updates. The downside is that there are a bunch of noise and unnecessary overloaded info tweets that you have to filter out.

Porn - September 1, 2024, 5:30 pm

(Sep 1, 2024 01:36 PM)RangoWorld Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think Twitter / X is good for fast and insider updates. The downside is that there are a bunch of noise and unnecessary overloaded info tweets that you have to filter out.

I have a plugin to block youtube shorts but I wish there was something for twitter since it has the fastest response time, just follow accounts like coindesk or watcherguru

Daily - September 1, 2024, 8:18 pm

Download CoinStats on your phone.

Blockonome - September 2, 2024, 4:43 pm

(Sep 1, 2024 01:36 PM)RangoWorld Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think Twitter / X is good for fast and insider updates. The downside is that there are a bunch of noise and unnecessary overloaded info tweets that you have to filter out.

It is a good place, but there are a lot of crap on there as well, indeed.

This is good information so far guys, thank you!