If you count 13 year old me getting paid some cash for working at little local restaurant then I saved that money n then spent it with few other paychecks on a new console I believe. After that, saved up again and bought a PC but I was getting paid fucking pennies by them guys so I took quite a bit of saving hahaha.

I'll never forget it. My first check was a whopping $250. I blew it on a pair of Oakley sunglasses.

I saved it and used that plus my next paycheck to buy a laptop for college. I actually ended up gutting that laptop for parts to restore a Thinkpad T440p as a small project during my sophomore year. I ended up using that laptop all through college and still have it.

I offered my parents money so that they could use it for whatever...

They paid for everything until I got my first job, so offering them money was a no-brainer.

For me it was health insurance paid $250 for my first moth premium.

Then paid for insurance and other bills.

I think it was maybe the 4th check where I bought like 10 servers and about 300 ethernet cables and about 2 196 distribution fiber optic cables. This was when I started my first business.

Pretty sure I bought my own food with it. That's far too long ago to remember.

I couldn't tell you at this point, but I'm almost certain I just spent that $300ish on whatever I felt like. Junk food, video games, etc.

Realj111 - September 2, 2024, 7:57 pm

I spent it on a video game alongside a pack of Lucky Strike Red 100s, Marlboro Black Red 100s and I bought a case of Milwaukeees and some food. I tried to stretch it, I had extremely poor spending habits hahaha

Luiville82 - September 9, 2024, 7:04 am
