There are 35 new victims. This is not the old case. This is 35 new women.

Yes I know.

I believe it's now a setup and money was passed over to get words out the mouths.

To take the Tates down.

They have caused too much problems for the higher ups.

While of course blessing the brokies.

I will watch the video later but this does not surprise me at all considering the shit he has said and done of which there is evidence for.

But I am sure his supporters will say it is the "Matrix" after him ?

These guys are slime balls, nothing new here. But tbh, there are thousands and thousands and thousands of rich powerful men who are far less outspoken than these internet kids who also abuse and do just as bad or worse things to woman. It's terrible and they should all be dealt with accordingly.

Looks like another attack on the Tate brothers. Shame.

If they actually are guilty then fuck them. But they've gone for their throats so many times now, only to fail every single time? That raises so much doubt for me that they're actually guilty, especially given Andrew's influence over young men who every single countries government wants control of for blatant reasons. Not to mention Tristan has grown a much larger audience ever since Andrew became known worldwide and coined the "Top G" term.

I'd love if they were innocent. It would only mean that two men who actually produce great content were innocent, but also that there are no actual victims who suffered any of these terrible allegations. A non-guilty verdict is a win-win situation.

All the videos that Bruce Rivers the Criminal Lawyer has produced on the Tate brothers include video and audio of the Tate brothers actually admitting to crimes with their own mouths on videos we can watch, but their fans will not watch the videos. On this one Bruce Rivers plays video of Andrew Tate that shows Andrew Tate admitting to having sex with someone when she was 15.

at 8:02 your lawyer friends cuts him off and then adds on another clip chaining them together. This is out of context, even if its cut up pieces from the same video.

I don't think ur lawyer friend is posting in good faith of the tates.

Just like your other thread with your lawyer friend, the one who posted like 15 ads has the same thing loool.

He knows there's lots of money to be made mentioning the Tates, Rape allegations and what not.

Early Tate days, bro was a pimp no doubt. He is a player, sluts and whores love that shit. Jcole said it him self ina song: Don't change her, she dont wana be changed.

He took them to another country and confiscated their passports though. "My lawyer friend"? I don't know him personally, dude. lol Also the defense that "you can see women leaving the premises where he is accused of keeping them prisoners," is bogus because some of the women were his "bottom bitches" that controlled and at times even allegedly tortured the women lower down his hierarchy. So yes those at the top of his hierarchy which he ironically calls "bottom bitches" leave the premises and go clubbing. I guess he calls them "bottom," because they're the base on which his business was formed.

I watched on Brave so I'm not sure what ads you are talking about other than the one in the video for eforms.com

Not to mention that he keeps that revolver sitting on his desk for a reason, it's all for relatability and mental monetization. He's trying to reach the same exact audience that would tune into a Tate video, the gun loving, freedom loving American's that he knows will watch his videos.

Product placement is everything, and that lawyer has it down. Very clear he's doing it for the money. I mean you can even tell by how he words some of the things he says, what slang he uses and when, etc..

Sorry I didn't mean to dig at you. It's just that I have watched more long formed Andrew Tate content than you have watched these cut up clips from these tate hater YouTubers feening of his name is a lil triggering.

No one but the Tates and the people living there know what really went down. It's all speculation with bits of "evidence" sniped from here and there. Nothing concrete.

I think he was a big player and with that comes with Meanie activities. Sluts and whores love that though, and that's ultimately who he targeted.

Mind you, a lot of the women who worked for him are now married and are millionaires.

I don't even keep up with the Tates these days, but they have done so much good for us Men in this rainbow society I won't ever switch sides. If the judge says guilty, I'd think it's fake unless some real hard core evidence comes to light.

So to be clear if he is found guilty on relations with a minor you will still support him unless it meets your requirements of evidence?.

Ivanka Trump - September 19, 2024, 10:47 am

Multiple victims have been proven as made up, and when asked to show up at court they did NOT show up.

Multiple victims have recently come out and told the Romanian media that they are NOT victims and that the government has set this up.

The mainstream media continues to slander the Tate brothers & their reputation daily. Meanwhile we have a few big media hosts within the BBC that have done utter gross stuff with PROVEN victims, these media hosts currently walk free since they do not hurt the globalists plan.

Funny how the double standard applies, and still people believe the Tate brothers are somehow guilty.

Innocent until proven guilty.

Well, alright, but be fair, I assume you're talking about Huw Edwards, and the proof there was that he was sent some despicable pictures on whatsapp. There's no suggestion he raped or pimped anybody, and maybe he should have gone to prison, maybe he shouldn't, but if the 'globalists' control everything and this hurts their plan, why do they keep reporting about it? It's hilarious to me how the BBC will cover the Tate's like they're the fucking devil reincarnated, but the whole Prince Andrew situation was just glossed right over.

UK News channels are literally a joke & meme all at the same time.

You're genuinely fucking retarded for thinking this at this point. All they've done is make money using the matrix narrative.

That's. All.

They've literally changed nothing. They've accomplished nothing. They KNOW they can't change anything in the world.

So they'll just use it to make money. Simple as that.

Tate isn't famous for what he's done or who he is.

Andrew Tate is famous for his personality. That's literally all there is to it. He's captivating and charismatic.

I dare everybody to argue me. Come at me.

I agree with your analysis.

Tate isn't fighting the "Matrix", he's part of it. He's an actor playing the role of a misogynistic asshole in a psychological operation. One of the goals of this PSYOP is to create further hatred between men and women. His "conversion" to Islam is fake as well just like everything else about him. Tate himself says that his father was a CIA agent. His father was also a misogynist who admitted to beating up women. So, it looks like Tate was groomed to play the same role as his father.

Like you said, this guy isn't famous for anything he's done but his notoriety has been artificially manufactured by social media algorithms. Social media in itself is controlled by the "matrix", there is nothing organic about anything of consequence that happens on it.

Sorry but you're ignoring the evidence because the Tates align with your political ideology. You even clearly state that even if found guilty, you won't believe it's true.

I really fail to see how anyone can objectively view Andrew Tate and believe he didn't do everything he's accused of. Dude ran an Only Fans brothel farm. You think that's all he did? Of course he was doing much much more. Rich and powerful people cross the line of illegal sex all the time thinking their money and power protects them (which it often does).

Tate isn't a politician, he's just one mouth out of dozens. I don't see any actual reason why anyone would set him up in the way some of you are saying. Could some of the women be after the money and a payday...? Absolutely. But really Tate himself behaves in a way that makes me think he's super-guilty. Dude is massive misogynist who treats women like objects. That's what he's been preaching for years to young men so when you find out he's actually in real life treating women like shit, why would you be surprised?

That's because it is quite the trend that big names, (to give a few from the top of my head, Telegram Founder, Wikki Leaks) were accused of horrible crimes involving women... But why? Well I believe it's because the people who read such headlines will automatically be triggered without much due diligence and be inclined to listen to the mainstream media about them. And I think by now we can all agree that mainstream media are not good, have been caught manipulating and stirring misinformation to suit their agendas. So that is why I said I will not believe the judge so easily.

Quote:I really fail to see how anyone can objectively view Andrew Tate and believe he didn't do everything he's accused of.

Hey listen, I am in no way blinding myself thru his success and lifestyle, I have spent well over 100 hours diving into their podcasts and their history... Their father was a chess grandmaster, Tate himself was playing chess with professionals at the age of 8. It was the growth mindset instilled in him by his father that really glued me to them. Not to mention the brothers Tristan and Andrew have such strong brotherhood, that shit truly inspires me.

Quote: You think that's all he did? Of course he was doing much much more.

Their upbringing was tough in the shit show town of Luton, surrounded by and influenced by drug gangs and cartels, I can only imagine what shit they were getting up to. Tate definitely owned some casinos, and he definitely owned an OF empire. (not on OF but same thing).

A lot of the women who worked for him are married and financially very well off. In fact, over 35 women came to his court hearing the other day to plead his innocence. So i mean, idk whats going on.

Tate truly has an abundance of women, and maybe he did take advantage of that fact. The easier they become the more arrogant you become kinda thing. I think he was a Jerk to some of the women but by the fact of how abundant women is to him, i cannot believe the accusations put on him.

Quote: I don't see any actual reason why anyone would set him up in the way some of you are saying

Andrew Tate is the only 'influencer' to have the mass military aged men on his side. This is a threat to the people who want to keep us in control. Tate has TOO much power, and it was very clear. He dominated social media platforms with his messages for many many months. You should really look into his controversial popular takes of the world, and you will see why hes such a fat target.

Quote: Dude is massive misogynist who treats women like objects

On camera with them 10-25 second clips, yeah it can definitely be perceived that way... But dive into his life via podcasts and his own vlogs on rumble, you can see he looks after his women(s) and his children very well, and everyone around him. He acted a certain way to get mass views/attention.

That's a very warped view. Do you think only poor people commit heinous crimes? Not all accusations are true but that also means they aren't all false either.

None of that is relevant to the charges. You can admire them all you want and believe they are intelligent but can still be guilty.

Quote:A lot of the women who worked for him are married and financially very well off.

I never understood people that think just because a person isn't raping or murdering everyone that they are innocent. My guess, Tate knew exactly who he could take advantage of and who he couldn't. Bill Cosby didn't rape every woman in his life nor did Weinstein. But absolutely both were found very very guilty.

Strange you say he was a jerk to some women but you can't believe the accusations...you need a reality check.

Yeah, many abusers like Cosby treated the women in his family very well. That's not uncommon at all. You literally have serial rapists and killers who have families including daughters. It doesn't mean anything that Tate treated family well.

That's not what I'm saying at all. I like to believe nobody has a clean slate but this point was that, those who are creating a huge impact (where the higher ups may not like) expect accusations of such. It is quite a trend rn. Like I said, Telegram, Wiki leaks and so many other big names have been put under this scope of crime. (Without hard proof, however I understand proving such crimes is hard in itself).

Quote:None of that is relevant to the charges. You can admire them all your want and believe they are intelligent but can still be guilty.

Fair enough. 100%.

Military aged men is his demographic. He has cultivated us, helped make us aware of all these things happening in modern times (Huge spike in trans cases, fake news and so on).

Andrew Tate has an incredibly large following. Nothing like these actors and influencers. The social media boom has even lead him to being the most searched name on google a few years ago.

Remember, I don't think he is innocent. I don't think anyone is. I just don't believe the crimes being put against him.

His content is a summary of the 41 tenets of tate, which is what he and the War room members live by:

<https://www.cobratate.com/41-tenets#tenet1>

Quote:Strange you say he was a jerk to some women but you can't believe the accusations...you need a reality check.

In the OF business he was in, some of the women became arrogant and selfish. (Allegedly of course). Some of the women would get overly drunk and cause issues. Until Andrew finally took action and kicked them out. The women retaliated by making fake accusations which were found to be false. No headlines on that though.

Only the headlines that are against tate go widespread now. Social media machine want him gone.

There's just way toooooo much content now, so to find the best 5 min vid for you will take some time. He posts contents in multiple angles.

- 1-> Shit talking women (Yes, ironic, but its how the views come in lol)
- 2-> Masculinity traits of a man and all that good stuff.
- 3-> Discipline/Action - great content to be inspired by.

The BBC reported CCTV footage is part of the case. Also you accused me of click bait, but it's in the title of Bruce River's video, so it's not my clickbait.?

One thing I know, he has a lot of great quotes that he pretends are original, and I a while back I uncovered he stole some of them.

(Sep 23, 2024 01:16 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's a very warped view. Do you think only poor people commit heinous crimes? Not all accusations are true but that also means they aren't all false either.

None of that is relevant to the charges. You can admire them all you want and believe they are intelligent but can still be guilty.

I never understood people that think just because a person isn't raping or murdering everyone that they are innocent. My guess, Tate knew exactly who he could take advantage of and who he couldn't. Bill Cosby didn't rape every woman in his life nor did Weinstein. But absolutely both were found very very guilty.

Strange you say he was a jerk to some women but you can't believe the accusations...you need a reality check.

Give me his best 5 minute clip to watch. Something you think makes him special enough for all this influence.

Yeah, many abusers like Cosby treated the women in his family very well. That's not uncommon at all. You literally have serial rapists and killers who have families including daughters. It doesn't mean anything that Tate treated family well.

Bravo!

The headline isn't from the MSM it's from the lawyer YouTuber, but I guess he said that because it's in the evidence that is going to be used in court, and what will be used in court is reported by the media. I mean eventually it will be shown in a courtroom, but if you are going to disbelieve everything that will be shown in court because the media reported on it i guess that you personally will not be able to believe anything. And when they are convicted you will be angry because you think it's so just so fucking cool that they abuse, torture, kidnap, rape, traffic, strangle and steal from, and most of all enslave women, since there was so much money from the kidnapping and enslavement part. And don't get me wrong I have NOTHING against women choosing to work in the sex industry under decent bosses, but not from this shit with the fraudulent "lover boy method," [that is literally fraud,] the confiscating of passports, forced plastic surgery and torture after plastic surgery, forced eleven hour days etc....

Yes he's never said he personally came up with those quotes. It was a group effort amongst the members of the War Room. You can literally search my name and find it.

Your last paragraph is nothing but bunch of unverified loose claims. Forced plastic surgery? Forced 11 hours forced on camera. You know work them hard "slave those bitches" as he said. Fined for crying or wiping their nose etc.... those are some of the accusations. 35 accusers. Obviously there is yet to be a trial.

How about you tell me what I am supposed to be "mad at" though because you said "you're just mad because," but I didn't get the rest of that. I said very clearly I DO NOT have a problem with women willing choosing to work any place in the sex industry for good decent bosses who treat them well.

You have no proof other than the snippets of out of context clips where it may suggest he is doing such crimes, but really it was an ingredient for mass growth on social media. Why do you think those kinds of videos got so much attention? It's incredibly controversial, and Tate knows this. He even admitted to saying he was way too controversial in the early days when he wasn't as popular. But now that he's grown massively, he has said that he would have taken a different approach.

35 accusers yet 35 women turned up to court in defence of Andrew Tate. So what do you got to say about that?

BBC has been trying their hardest to get women to speak up on Tate. They've dived into every woman Tate had a friendship or relationship with and offered them money to speak. How do I know this? Because the women themselves outed the BBC and told the tates what they're doing.

He was indeed hungry to make money, coming from extreme poverty I can understand his hunger. That doesn't mean he abused women. Just strict work ethics, and that's okay if they are getting paid for it.

I think they have been paid well (albeit tax accusations might be true), and most of them are married off and living life good.

I find it honestly a little shocking that there are people who would just hear 1-2 words/sentennces accross multiple short-formed content and make him look out like he's the danger to society. He's a true blessing. He's put many many many men back in shape and given hope to succeed in this life. Too many people closed minded and stuck to their normal day to day routines get all aggy when they see certain keywords being pushed around.

It's just back and fourth arguments at this point. A man can look after many women but all it takes is a few to start talking and now we completely slander the man down without the final verdict from the Judge.

Even as a woman and a feminist I would subscribe to this free email actually. However, the problem with the speed and momentum and getting product in the most hands stuff is that while he IS innocent until proven guilty, I believe it's highly possible that all this stuff about speed and momentum and moving product may have meant he lost sight of ethics, during that process and that is what some of the accusations are about.

It's really hard to find any news on this. Very few have reported on it. We don't know if it's true that they "sited lack of evidence." Most likely they just found some way that the seizure was not strictly legal at this stage.

They have caused major problems for the governments across the world because of how dominant the Tates in popularity amongst military aged men. His message has affected millions in real time. His message mostly preaches to work hard, don't be a slave to the system blah blah.

But, no. The accusations are out and aloud. So we will ignore why in the first place they're trying to shut him down.

His content mixed with controversial views and women bashing takes is what set him going wide spread.

Just wanted to drop his latest email in for you

Quote:Imagine a game being played by three types of people.

One group gets to make the rules of the game.

Another group of people blindly follow the rules of the game.

The last group wants to win and is happy to cheat.

Now, without knowing any other information.

Which two groups do you think will benefit from this game?

And which one group will lose?

Reply with your answer.

1st and 3rd group will win in his game. You agree?

Oh crap 9pm?? I assumed you were like 6 hours behind me.. It's 9am here now. haha

I agree with you. I don't think "cheating" in his game is what cheating would be in a math exam, for example.

If he had cheated solely on his own, and not got the masses to listen to him to "cheat" (AKA get financial freedom asap) then I think he would have been left unnoticed and untouched. I really do believe it's only because of his audience he has amassed they are trying to take him down.

Well to be honest I don't understand your perspective in the above statement, or what harm you think any of that would actually have on "elites".

We've been having a decent conversation regarding this and hopefully that will continue, and I hope I won't offend you by saying by cheating I meant this stuff....

"Witnesses also claim they were forced to produce specific content to a strict schedule, under the threat of verbal and physical abuse.

The case file refers to threats to "break your teeth" or "end up in the morgue" in transcribed text messages, said to be from Ms Naghel.

She is also facing a charge of physically assaulting one victim - which she denies.

Fines of about 10% were imposed by the defendants on the women performing online for even small infractions - such as staying too long on a break, crying while live online, or wiping their nose while live, one witness says.

This apparently resulted in one of the women owing about €4,000 (£3,412) in debts.

A lawyer for the two female defendants said they vehemently denied the allegations which were not supported by any evidence, and were waiting for the court to decide their innocence.

The prosecutors' file also contains what is claimed to be transcriptions of audio messages from 2020 - in which Tristan Tate appears to say he doesn't want the women on sites like Pornhub and OnlyFans to have access to their accounts:

"I don't want them to have the passwords, I don't want them to have anything."

And:

"I don't want to tell them that they have OnlyFans, I want that money to be used by me and you, screw them..."

Another part of the transcript reads:

"Mainly I'm going to slave these bitches [...] I'm going to make them work even more hours and hours and hours.. I work these bitches like slaves. [...] SLAVE work. Minimum 10 or 12 hours a day."

I knew someone maybe as rich as Andrew Tate. My boss. He actually fell in love with me and I fucked up big time because he was at one point serious about marrying me, but he never told me himself and always paid other people to tell me and I just couldn't believe it when he had so many beautiful women around him, but I should have realised because no one else was allowed to talk to him anything like the way I did, and he basically was doing EVERYTHING I fucking said and kept offering me money and gifts that I wouldn't take because I was afraid he was playing some mind game, and never took his offers seriously because I knew he played mind games. When he asked me to have sex with him I thought he was fucking with me as well as I thought he had so many beautiful women around him and why would he want me even though he told me I was beautiful. I was getting treated like crap by a lot of people in that industry at the time because I was curvy and all the other women weren't. All of them.

He wasn't playing mind games with me about being in love with me! I was also married and so was he so....I didn't know he wanted to leave his wife for me. I felt if I ever took him seriously he might yell at me or mock me. I was wrong. But when I found out it was too late. He kind of also thought the same about me. He thought when I said I didn't think I was beautiful but just "Ok looking or sort of pretty," that I was fucking with him. Sometimes when I was in high spirits and laughing about whatever he decided that I was laughing at him for being in love with me and he would chew me out and I'd be like "What is going on?", he thought I was laughing at him for doing everything I suggested about anything. But I always thought he must be mad at me for something else and didn't understand. He thought I was laughing at him for being in love with me because he was so much older than me. I didn't even know he was in love with me though. He even told me to tell everyone that they had to do everything I said because he was in love with me. Even when he told me that I thought that was a mind game he was playing on everyone. Fuck I was thick and messed up my chance to marry a multimillionaire. I was young but an adult.

I understand the bits of text looks and sounds horrible. But they are not certainty to the crimes. Without full context I'm not judging.

The BBC lied to Tates for an honest interview, tate agreed and invited them to his home for the interview.

I won't say much, but the presenter was called Lucy and I recommend you go search for it on rumble. That should unfold you to how corrupt the BBC are in this whole Tate stuff.

And as for the "elites" and what not just search that up too on rumble it's too hard for me to write it in text, I sound silly. But the idea is not silly.

I've even been so broke that Tristan and I would get happy just having enough money to buy a bottle of hot sauce.

Hot sauce was the number one luxury in life. Trust me. 3 dollars for taste wasn't something we could afford.

We needed calories for our money.

I could've been "depressed", given excuses to everyone I met about how my life was hard and they don't understand.

I could've done all that, given up and STAYED broke.

You do not want to be the average man in the next 10 years.

You need to deeply understand that "average" changes.

Average USED to be fine.

Average USED to make sense for a man.

He's not some average YouTuber he's a professional criminal lawyer that has actual video and audio to back up the legal points he's making. Torturing a woman he forced to get a breast reduction by having his top girls that are in league with him force the woman to keep her arms in the air so her stitches ripped? etc... Here's some email shizzz

Quote: Most of you men are not angry enough.

And the ones that are have focused it in absolutely the wrong direction.

You get angry about the state of the world.

About things that have zero effect on your day-to-day reality.

If you had genuine tenacity and genuine guidance you'd be a millionaire in fantastic shape in less than a year.

Instead, you don't know how to use your anger.

So you're nowhere close to where you want to be.

As a man - when things are not the way you want them to be - the natural result is anger.

However, society has trained this out of men.

But I have another option for you.

It's the reason I drive around in supercars pulling money from the sky.

And win in every realm of human endeavor.

I am a master of my mind and focus my furious anger into unlimited power.

As a result, whatever I put my mind to becomes mine.

But the way I live goes against the way society has trained me to be.

They want you driving an average-ass car.

Working an average-ass job.

And being in average shape.

Are you willing to do something different?

If so, keep the anger you have.

Just learn some self-control - and focus it effectively.

And unlimited power and motivation await you.

I want everything my way and I want it INSTANTLY.

I will not wait and I will not compromise.

If this doesn't happen, I get unlimited motivation to create a future where it always happens via anger.

You cannot sleep when angry.

You cannot rest when angry.

You can only work.

And get results.

Absolutely.

Internet.

Shops in real life are confined to the people around that shop..

A shop on the internet however, can accept millions of customers anywhere, anytime.

So, yes, it is definitely possible. Not easy, but possible.

The trick is to sell value to the masses via social media. Compelling marketing efforts can make the most saturated and average items sell.

Yes we are in a time of hyper competitive and over saturation. Everything has become harder, and more output is required from the human to keep up.

That's great that you have that skill. I taught myself HTML back in the days when you needed it to do anything on the internet. Really annoying when you leave out a fullstop and the whole thing falls apart and that is the extent of my programming knowledge.

Thank you, I appreciate it.

Without programming, I would, with 100% certainty be a dipshit. AS I did shit in school.

If she has your number it's likely she was recommended by the algo and followed you anyway. Maybe reach out and say hi hehe

Here's an email:

Quote:The best thing you can do for your own life is to make sure everyone around you is better.

Every single person you've ever contacted,

Every single person you've ever seen,

Your life would be better if they were rich, strong, happy and good-hearted.

If you could spend 1 minute of your time to save 15 minutes of another man's time.

You have CREATED 14 minutes.

CREATED TIME.

Do this perpetually,

Do this constantly,

And watch those CREATED minutes find their way back to you.

You would live in an abundant reality overflowing with created time.

You are so "unlucky" in life because you've never CREATED time.

Instead, you perpetually DESTROY it.

So selfish, that you would trade 20 minutes of someone else's time to save yourself 5 minutes of your own.

Short-sighted,

Net-negative,

Destructive.

And all that destruction leads to a scarce world you live in.

A dog-eat-dog world, where everyone around you is desperate and willing to damage you to better themselves.

Win-lose is all you and everyone around you know

Because it's all you spread.

I am a billionaire.

I do not need to take my time to write these emails for you.

I lose 20 minutes.

But while I may lose time to do this, I know that YOU will learn something new.

You learn something which would've taken you hundreds of hours of life experience to come up with it on your own.

Writing these emails, I create MILLIONS of minutes every day.

I create a world full of abundance,

And it's common sense that somehow some of those minutes will flow back my way.

A positive spiral.

Giving is the source of all creation.

Such is the Way of Wudan.

IT could be a bot account that followed you, but in any case that is a very strange coincidence.

At first i kinda was overwhelmed with how long the email was, but i read it again, slowly.. and wow i found it to be quite impactful.

What I took from it was that if it takes a minute or two to help somebody, help them because the time you save them will be paid back to you in positive karma over time kinda thing. I'd like to think thats facts.

That's a lot of time required to watch all 3 parts, and I just don't have that time anymore.

I am fully fully aware of the shit he's been accused of and that it may "seem" true with the way he presents himself in his older videos.

The big case that has been the better part of two years is about to be thrown out. I recommend you check that out as that is more significant imo. A lot of lies were made and pushed forward in that case, mostly because it aligned with the way he spoke in earlier videos.

Again, thank you brother.

Coming 15th out of 15 is impressive? Or 13th out of 15? Or playing chess at five at all? His DAD did win the tournaments, but apparently he himself did not do well, but was probably younger than most of the players being five or the youngest in a children's tournament. He was no prodigy at it from the screenshots they were showing, but that doesn't matter. Only that he's making up bullshit and saying he won them kind of matters. lol

At around 10:23 they start talking about lies related to the family and chess. Around 12:24 is where he starts talking about being a chess player at the age of 5 and they expose it as all lies. I said he came 15th out of 15. Watching it again it was actually that he came 10th out of 10 but claimed he won when he lost to everyone according to the evidence they showed. They say in the following game he came 13th out of 15.

His father was a very impressive chess player, however his father apparently wasn't at the level of success that Andrew Tate claims, I do understand that though because people are stupid, and if you don't say someone was at the actual top a lot of people won't acknowledge tremendous success that isn't at the very pinnacle, and will just be stupid about it.

It's like no one can understand that I have been diagnosed with "moderately severe hearing loss" and they will call it only moderate, or they will call it severe. And they can't comprehend when someone has a child with moderate range autism, they can't understand that, and act all confused, and want to ask again if the child's autism is mild or severe. It has to be mild or severe for them to comprehend it because they're fucking stupid.

And likewise when I placed fourth, and so was "Highly Commended," in a writing competition that hundreds of people entered, the majority of people can't conceive that that is an achievement, and a success. You have to have won first place, or it's nothing in most people's eyes which is also fucking stupid.

Many people act like they can't comprehend that someone was a finalist in a competition and that that's an achievement. They say "Duh what does finalist mean?" So, I get why he lied about his father. He still does tell a lot of lies though. lol

Sometimes one has to accept that you can admire one thing about someone, but they still might be a total psychopath at the end of the day. Like Andrew Tate HAS collected a lot of great, and original motivational slogans, but....

By the same token, I read the most beautiful book that this woman wrote, it was so beautifully written, but then her daughter wrote a book about how her mother molested her. And that woman's father had many charges for child sexual abuse, so two pedophiles married each other, so was most likely true.

I don't think his lies are apparent or downright intentional, in fact at most I'd call them white lies which isn't a full on lying but carries some level of truth. Pretty much to the same reasoning you have mentioned above.

I said it time and time again that those quotes are not solely his but the summary built by the war room. It's totally possible and plausible they took quotes elsewhere, but who cares when they are following the rules they state.

I personally think you're associating Tate with similar attributes to somebody who has been conceived as negative but I have evaluated all ends of Tate. No one's perfect but Tate is definitely a net positive to society.

Well with that bit of what I said I was just acknowledging that it is a good collection of inspirational quotes regardless.

However the case evidence being thrown out now though does not mean that his accusers lied, or anything like that, it is a legal game and just means his expensive lawyers found ways to get evidence thrown out for not meeting whatever legal standard. So, it's hard to know what's true and what isn't.

there is definitely an entrepreneur in him trying to sell snake oil/scam, but such is the way of the world, ain't nothing not a scam anymore

They completely took advantage of so many boys wanting to become men. They are salesmen, and sold a dream with info anyone can get out of the average self help book or website.

That was red flag #1 for me, years ago.

Their behavior only worsened and they became more ignorant and brave with their anti-woke confessions of bravado and disrespect.

I'm not surprised and not mad.

Child molesters and traffickers and conmen don't deserve a pedestal, so let them take a seat in prison for a bit instead.

After going viral because of saying extreme misogynist things and making a lot from Only Fans after confiscating many "girlfriends' passports and making them work 12 hour days the next thing he did was start up a $50 a month club for men to teach how to get rich from using the "Lover boy method" pretending to love and want marriage with women while actually only wanting them to do Only Fans. This was a big mistake for him because of course some journalist joined the course, and taped him admitting to illegal things like pretending you love and want to marry someone in order to trick them into making pornographic videos is actually fraud. Not to mention getting them to fly out to Romania and then confiscating their passports and not letting them out of the house. Then some idiots go "Oh but there is video of women leaving the house. Yeah those are the women at the top of his food chain that are helping him enslave the other women and he goes out nightclubbing with some of those and two of them have been arrested same as him and his brother.

Just because some evidence got dropped and prosecutors can't use certain evidence in court doesn't mean the whole thing has been thrown out much as that's been lied about on social media.
