

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: From a Kid Hacker to a Tech Enthusiast: Ready to Join a Like-Minded Community!

Limiteds - September 19, 2024, 8:14 pm

I've been into hacking since I was 11, and now that I'm in my 30s, ? that passion is still going strong. One of the things I love the most is working with RATs (Remote Access Tools) and figuring out how to bypass antivirus detection with my files. There's just something so satisfying about outsmarting those systems, you know? It's been a long journey, and yeah, I've been scammed a few times along the way, but those experiences taught me a lot. Now I feel like it's time to expand my horizons and connect with a bigger community. I'm really hoping to find a group of like-minded people who share the same passion for tech and hacking, where we can learn from each other and maybe even make a positive impact in the online world together. ? So, if there's a group out there that vibes with what I'm saying, I'd love the chance to join and grow together.

Thanks for reading! ? ?

Bastille - September 19, 2024, 10:11 pm

Hello, welcome back to HF, hope we'll see you more often on the forum, it seems that you came back after 1 year of inactivity, always pleasant to see experienced members.

Feel free to share your knowledge on the forum, make tutorials, guides, or by answering other members questions, that's usually how you outstand and catch the attention of groups. There are also sometimes pre-requisites such as an account old enough, or a minimum posts / threads, don't LQP tho, that could be disadvantageous for you.

Hope to see you around, enjoy your stay !

7 - September 30, 2024, 9:31 pm

(Sep 19, 2024 08:14 PM)Limiteds Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I've been into hacking since I was 11, and now that I'm in my 30s, ? that passion is still going strong. One of the things I love the most is working with RATs (Remote Access Tools) and figuring out how to bypass antivirus detection with my files. There's just something so satisfying about outsmarting those systems, you know? It's been a long journey, and yeah, I've been scammed a few times along the way, but those experiences taught me a lot. Now I feel like it's time to expand my horizons and connect with a bigger community. I'm really hoping to find a group of like-minded people who share the same passion for tech and hacking, where we can learn from each other and maybe even make a positive impact in the online world together. ? So, if there's a group out there that vibes with what I'm saying, I'd love the chance to join and grow together.

Thanks for reading! ? ?

Considered, I will be looking more into your activity.

I love your positivity but the word vibes hurts me lol ?